

Cong steps up Attack on cities

SAIGON (AP) — Unleash the heaviest shelling of South Vietnamese towns and allied bases in three weeks, the Viet Cong appeared today to have opened a new and more violent phase of its seven-week-old spring offensive.

Rockets and mortars hit more than 45 towns and bases during the night. The heaviest attacks were made on provincial capitals on opposite sides of Saigon, Tay Ninh to the northwest and Vinh Long to the southwest.

At least 21 persons were killed, 200 were wounded in the two cities and about 80 others were missing in Tay Ninh. Some Americans were among the wounded, but no American deaths were reported.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said six provincial and five district capitals were among the targets Thursday night, and that about a third of the attacks were in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon.

The night's attacks were among the most devastating of the offensive which began Feb. 23 and the heaviest since the night of March 20-21, when 65 rocket and mortar attacks were reported.

During the past three weeks the shelling had dropped off to between 10 to 20 attacks a night, U.S. military analysts said earlier this week the offensive was in a lull while the enemy received replacements and supplies after suffering heavy losses.

But the American experts predicted an increase in enemy activity this weekend and said most of the attacks would be "by fire," meaning rockets and enemy offensive in the past week, the U.S. Command's weekly summary of aircraft losses revealed today that 26 American helicopters have been lost in the past week, bringing the total for the war to 2,520. One was reported shot down in the Mekong Delta Thursday, and the loss of eight others had been explained in earlier communications during the week, but there was no explanation for the loss of the other 17.

South Vietnamese sources said more than 100 mortar rounds hit the market place, a prison and Vietnamese officers' mess in Vinh Long, a delta city 65 miles southwest of Saigon.

Initial reports said 15 persons were killed and 105 were wounded, including 96 Vietnamese civilians.

On the other side of Saigon and close to the Cambodian border, more than 80 rocket and mortar rounds slammed into Tay Ninh, blowing up two ammunition dumps, destroying 100 buildings and causing at least 101 casualties, officials reported.

Officials said much of the barrage was concentrated in a three-block area containing provincial government and military headquarters, a sector headquarters and the compound of the U.S. military advisory team.

About 15 rounds landed in the American compound, smashing buildings and causing moderate to heavy material damage, the U.S. Command said. As spokesmen said some Americans were wounded, but none were killed.

Half a dozen Vietnamese headquarters buildings were destroyed, along with several barracks for South Vietnamese militiamen. Elsewhere in the city of 100,000, exploding artillery shells and crushed buildings and homes, set them afire and apparently buried some of the victims alive.

Despite three American and four Vietnamese battalions in and around the city the Viet Cong zeroed in on the center of Tay Ninh at 1:20 a.m. and kept up the bombardment intermittently throughout the night. Exploding artillery shells and ammunition from the dumps that were hit were still going off in the middle of the afternoon, but officials said this was subsiding.

Reports from Tay Ninh said four Vietnamese civilians and two soldiers were killed; 10 civilians and 85 soldiers including the province chief were wounded, and an estimated 80 Vietnamese troops were missing.

Material strike turnout slim

Fewer people than expected turned out for last night's meeting of the Ann Arbor Tenants Union — the primary student group participating in a rent holdout at the University of Michigan. The session was held at the Michigan Union ballroom, where it was revealed that similar strike action is reportedly developing at the Eastern Michigan University campus as well as at Michigan State University and Ohio State University.

New Africa leader Promises suspect

DETROIT (AP) — The leader of the Republic of New Africa (RNA) has promised police he will bring a member of his Black Legion to court to face a charge of murdering a rookie policeman March 29.

Milton Henry, first vice president of the black separatist group, sent a telegram to Detroit Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen Thursday night saying he will produce Rafael Viera, 20, of New York City in Detroit Recorder's Court for arraignment.

Henry termed the charges unjust.

A federal fugitive warrant and a murder charge were issued against Viera Thursday in the shooting death of Patrolman Michael Czapski, 23, outside an inner city church, after the RNA had just completed its first anniversary celebration.

The RNA's goal is to begin a separate black country in five southern United States.

Alfred Hibbitt, 38, of Detroit, surrendered Thursday after he also was named in a warrant. He was held under $25,000 bond and faces preliminary hearing April 18 on a charge of assault with intent to murder in connection with the wounding of Patrolman Worobec in the incident.

At a news conference Thursday, Spreen also announced "John Doe" warrants had been issued against two other persons on charges stemming from the wounding of Patrolman Worobec.

Authorities said the policemen were shot when they investigated a number of the Black Legionnaires dressed in military uniforms who they said were carrying rifles outside the New Bethel Baptist Church, where the RNA meeting was held. The Black Legion is the military arm of the RNA.

About 40 police stormed inside the church and arrested 12 persons. All but two were released March 30 after a stormy court session in which Recorder's Judge George W. Crockett Jr. said illegal narcotics tests had been administered to some of those

2 hours late, Henry fined

DETROIT (AP) — Milton R. Henry of Pontiac, a vice president of the black separatist Republic of New Africa, was fined $100 for contempt of court Thursday when he showed up two hours late to defend a man in Recorder's Court.

"I'm tired of being picked on," Henry said after paying the fine with a $100 bill. Judge Joseph A. Gillis found Henry in contempt of court.

SOS to continue 'Millage' car wash

Because of the success of its car wash last Saturday, the "Save Our Schools" Citizens Advisory Committee will sponsor another one tomorrow.

The car wash will start at 9 a.m. and continue until the late afternoon. Willow Run High School students interested in helping the committee will be washing the cars.

The cost for the car wash is only a quarter for cars displaying a "S.O.S." bumper sticker or for people who are willing to have an "S.O.S." sticker placed on their car.

The S.O.S. Citizens Advisory Committee was formed to help the Board of Education pass its millage request, which will come before voters in the Willow Run School District on April 22.

The board is requesting a total of 17.5 mills — 14.5 for five years and 3 for two years — for school operations. This means that the voters will be voting on renewing 11 mills, which expired in December of 1968 and adding an additional 6.5 mills for a total of 17.5.

Th board's first bid for approval of a millage proposal was defeated earlier this year.

arrested, before they had a chance to consult their lawyers.

In his telegram Thursday night, Henry told Commissioner Spreen to "be advised that the citizens of the Republic of New Africa are people of good will—not criminals. If you have a warrant for the arrest of any citizen of this Republic outstanding, we will present such citizen in the appropriate court without the necessity of service of any process."

He also said if police "will particularize the factors bearing upon the identity of the persons described in your warrant as John Doe, we will also appear with them in whatever court required."

A separate RNA statement Thursday said police invaded the church and fired "more than an estimated 300 rounds of ammunition without regard for the safety of black women and children who were clearly

Special spring clean-up set

The annual special spring clean-up during which Department of Public Works crews will make weekly trash pick-ups will begin Monday in the city, according to DPW director Edwin L. (Bud) Abbott. DPW workers (from left) Bob Knight, Mike Ryan and Charles Johnson load trash onto a truck late this week to relieve work loads for next week. Abbott explained that the special pick-ups will be made on Mondays and Tuesdays each week through May 14. He asked that residents put the refuse in the margins and arrange it as conveniently as possible in order to avoid delays.

Police checking 'David Johnson'

After checking out and clearing nine persons named "David Johnson" as possible murder suspects, State Police have asked for the public's help in locating other men with the same name in connection with the murder of Jane L. Mixer on March 21.

Investigators have compiled a list of 16 persons in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area with the common name of "David Johnson" and have cleared nine of them after questioning. The men range from a teen-ager to older adults, and include some college students.

The name of "Johnson" became the focal point in the investigation after an open telephone book was found in Miss Mixer's dormitory room after the murder. A pencil mark in the box was made next to a David Johnson.

Police checked with this Johnson and determined that Miss Mixer had called him after the David Johnson she was supposed to ride home with did not show up on time.

The David Johnson she called was not the one scheduled to pick her up.

Another important clue found in her room was a note which read "David Johnson. Leaving 6:30 p.m." Police theorize that a David Johnson, or someone using that name, answered Miss Mixer's request on a student bulletin board for a ride to Muskegon.

Sgt. Max Little of the State Police detective division said that "David Johnson" would be considered a suspect if the right one is located. Teams of detectives have been laboring for the past three weeks trying to find the "right" David Johnson.

As in the investigation into the death of Maralynn Skelton, police have said that someone in the area must know someone who uses the names of David Johnson. Sgt. Little said a common name like that was difficult to trace in the transient world of college students.

Miss Mixer was last seen alive at 6 p.m. on March 20 by her boyfriend. At that time she told him she had arranged for a ride to her parents' home. Her body was found the following morning lying on a headstone at Denton Cemetery, strangled and with two bullet wounds in the head.

A State Police crime laboratory report has indicated that Miss Mixer was not sexually assaulted in any manner and that she died "sometime that night."

Sgt. Little said that the report indicated no use of drugs by the girl, and that the chances of the Mixer and Skelton murders being connected are small.

In hospital two months:

Breakey glad to be home

"I'm feeling fine and it's good to be home," Judge James R. Breakey Jr. said today.

The judge, 69, who lives at 1885 Packard Rd., has served on the Circuit Court bench since 1945.

He was released from the University of Michigan Hospital Tuesday after suffering a heart attack in his office on Feb. 4.

He said that the doctors had not given him a date when he could return to work. He said that he had to return to the hospital for checkups and tests on the medicines that were being given him.

He said that allergic reactions to the medicine were the reason that he was in the hospital so long. He said that he suffered several setbacks and was in the intensive care ward for five weeks.

The judge has been ordered to take it easy and not to do much exercising for the present. "I'm ready to sit down when I walk from the front of the house to the back," he said.

He said his wife has been a "real soldier in weathering the storm and getting me back home."

He said he was on a non-salt diet and that no visitors were allowed but that he appreciated the hundreds of cards that he had received.

Asked if he were ever scared, the judge said, "Yes."

Strike goes on:

Gar Wood Officials Keep mum

By DON KRUPP
Of The Press Staff

Management officials at Gar Wood Industries, Inc., maintained silence today, as a wildcat strike by United Auto Workers Local 769 entered its third day with indications of a settlement in sight.

Striking workers, usually at 2085 E. Michigan Ave., reported that paychecks, usually issued on Fridays, were being withheld this morning by the company. They re-emphasized that their major grievance is compulsory overtime, and also said some employees have had back pay delayed up to three months.

Gar Wood public relations official Robert Saunders, of the E. Michigan plant, remained unavailable for comment on the situation.

The wildcat strike affecting approximately 1,000 workers at the company's two plants here, began Wednesday afternoon with a walkout during the afternoon shift. Gar Wood has been working two shifts. During peak periods, it also employs a third.

According to UAW labor relations official John H. Burton, also the mayor of Ypsilanti, workers at the two Gar Wood plants have had a number of grievances recently, with the union and management discussing the matters. However, he said a number remain unresolved and apparently were the reasons for the strike.

Burton said the strike is unauthorized and that the UAW, in accordance with its contract, cannot enter negotiations until employees return to work.

Local 769 President Jim Bailey and management officials reportedly were in conference this morning at the company's E. Michigan offices.

Many cars were parked along the highway yesterday and today, with striking workers gathering around the entrance to the E. Michigan plant. State Police and Sheriff's Department representatives were at the scene yesterday but not today. The total number of workers gathered at the plant today was about 55 — considerably less than yesterday.

Gar Wood manufactures automotive accessories at its Automotive Division at 2085 E. Michigan and at its Metal Craft Division at 800 Lowell St. Strikers have concentrated their assembly at the E. Michigan site.

JOSEPH J. GROSS
... new Panax official

Personnel Director Appointed

Panax names Scout executive

Panax Corp. of East Lansing today announced the appointment of a director of education at the University of Michigan. The Ypsilanti Press is a division of Panax Corp., which also includes five other daily newspapers and eight weekly papers in Michigan.

Joseph J. Gross, for the past 29 years an executive with the Boy Scouts of America, will join Panax May 1. He is also a trustee of Northern Michigan University.

In making the announcement of Mr. Gross' appointment, Panax President John P. McGoff said, "We are most fortunate to be able to secure a man with the background of Mr. Gross. His proven skills in organization and management will be a great asset to our plans in the area of personnel, insurance programs, recruiting and training. With more than 700 employees, this is a vitally important area for Panax."

Gross is a native of Sioux City, Iowa, and received his education at the University of Iowa and Lincoln University. He began his career with the Boy Scouts in Dallas, Tex., in 1940 before joining the Detroit Area Scout Council in 1944. He was the assistant district scout executive until 1953 when he became director of community relations for the Detroit Scout council.

Mr. Gross is currently serving on or has been a member of numerous Michigan government and social agencies. Former Michigan Gov. George W. Romney appointed him to the Northern Michigan University Board of Control in 1966. He continues to serve on that board. Romney also appointed him to the Michigan Corrections Commission in 1964. He served until the commission was abolished by Michigan's new Constitution in 1966.

Another Romney appointment of Mr. Gross was to the State Delinquency Commission and the Michigan Council on Crime and Delinquency, on which he serves as vice chairman.

Committees in Detroit on which he has or is now serving include the Coordinating Council on Human Relations, the Neighborhood Conserva-

Districts throughout state:

Schools notify teachers of firings

By the Associated Press

Financially pressed school districts across the state are notifying thousands of teachers they will not be rehired for the coming school year.

Most of the districts which will cut back on nontenured teachers have suffered millage proposal defeats within the last two months, and have little idea how much state aid will be forthcoming.

Almost all of them will be operating on deficit budgets by the end of the current school year.

Among Detroit-area schools facing staff cutbacks are Lincoln Park, Allen Park, Crestwood, Dearborn No. 8 (Westwood and Waterford.) Similar cutbacks are also being discussed in Birmingham and Huron Valley.

Waterford schools are expected to release 94 of their 720 teachers, according to Robert Crumpton of the Waterford MEA.

Crompton said the district is now on probation with the North Central Association of Colleges and secondary schools, and may lose its accreditation because of planned staff and program cutbacks.

In Port Huron, school officials are considering the cutback of half the district's 600 teachers. The MEA is contesting the cutbacks, arguing that natural staff attrition and turnover may be enough to meet financial crises in some of the districts.

Kai Erickson, director of professional negotiation for the Michigan Education Association, said:

"If some of these districts manage to pull out of their professional bind, some of the teachers may be rehired before school opens next fall. Right now, though, they are just playing it safe in case the money doesn't show up."

Richard Croll, director of the MEA district including Crestwood and Dearborn No. 8, said: "We are still in the talking stage on some of these things. But right now the whole profession is just a little shell-shocked."

Consumers, workers Meet with mediators

JACKSON (AP) —Consumers Power Co. and the Michigan State Utility Workers have accepted a proposal to meet with federal and state mediators Monday in an effort to settle a strike which began last Tuesday. The union contract expired March 31.

Serious negotiations toward a new contract broke down in mid-March, the union said.

Meanwhile, a series of incidents in the Detroit area involved sabotage of gas line connections to customers. Neither the company nor the union professed any idea on who might be responsible for these incidents.

A union spokesman said, "Those things happen whether the unions are on strike or not."

The latest in a series of picketing incidents took place Thursday when pickets threw logs across a roadway leading to Consumers' Big Rock Point plant near Charlevoix, according to the company. State Police and the Charlevoix County sheriff's office were called to quiet that incident.

The company reported construction work was suspended on its new Palisades nuclear plant 35 miles west of Kalamazoo, where 550 construction workers refused to cross Utility Workers' picket lines.

Consumers reported it has filed charges of unfair labor practices against the union on the Palisades picket line and in connection with construction stoppages at the Flint service center, the general office building in Jackson and the Cobb generating plant.

Unidentified vandals sabotaged the gas supply of three restaurants and lounges, a coin laundry and three apartment buildings in Roseville, Mount Clemens, Warren and Bloomfield Township Wednesday and Thursday by breaking the locks to main gas valves which they shut off, according to company sources.

Art-lover To fight Officials

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Art-lover Mrs. J. Kelly Kaufman has warned Muskegon officials they're in for a legal donnybrook if they try to clear piles of old railroad ties and foundry clinkers from her "earth garden."

Earth garden is the name used by Mrs. Kaufman, wife of a Muskegon industrialist, to describe the assemblage of what she terms "art" and what Muskegon officials call "junk" on a vacant lot near her home. A city inspector has ordered her to clean it out but she refuses.

Mrs. Kaufman responded irately Thursday to the City Commission's order that the city attorney take Mrs. Kaufman to court over the refusal to remove the old transformers, clinkers, oxidized metal shavings, urinals and what-not.

"They picked the wrong person to do this to," she asserted. "I didn't expect Muskegon to like it. They're so far behind, and I've always been forward-thinking," she said adding, "I'm not going to be modest."

Mrs. Kaufman, whose husband is board chairman of American Store Equipment Co. of Muskegon, says, "My earth garden is something tourists will want to come to Muskegon to see. They would flip, absolutely flip, about it in New York."

After 3 weeks: Board reinstates 6 MHS students

MILAN —The Board of Education Wednesday night reinstated the six students it had indefinitely suspended for passing out White Panther literature at the high school three weeks ago.

The action followed hearings which took place over a 2-hour period. During that time each student and his parents or guardian conferred with the board and school administrators. The decision was announced when the board reconvened following the hearings.

"We reinstated all six students with the understanding that we could expect responsible action from them now on," said Superintendent of Schools Clayton Symons.

In related action, the board adopted a recommendation of its policy committee, which stated that "all materials for posting, presentation or distribution within the Milan area schools, but not sponsored by the school system, must have prior approval of the principal of the building. The principal may delegate this responsibility."

The policy committee also recommended the formation of a committee composed of students, teachers and administrators which will set specific guidelines for screening material in the future. The recommendations of this committee will be given to the policy committee for presentation to the Board of Education.

"We feel this should be a coordinated effort with the students involved," said Symons. "It is not our attempt to keep students from everything there is to do. However, school officials must have something to say about those things for which we are accountable."

Milan Cancer Crusade head Is named

MILAN — Mrs. Arthur Opp Jr., of 484 W. Main was recently named chairman of the Milan Cancer Crusade. She also served as chairman of last year's drive.

The Crusade's mail campaign is under way, and plans are being made for a fish fry later this month, which will be sponsored by the Milan Lodge of the Loyal Order of the Moose.

New spirit:

Catholics end Self-critique

DETROIT (AP) — The new spirit of the Catholic church—a no holds barred, self criticism—was evident through the four-day National Catholic Education Association conference which ended Thursday.

Discussion topics were many and varied and ranged from celibacy of priests to the rights of priests and nuns to join teachers unions.

Nuns from virtually every order in the United States attended and their dress ranged from the traditional long habits to short-skirted, bright colored dresses. They thronged into Detroit restaurants and won plaudits from one waitress for being "real good tippers."

Some 200 papers were delivered to the gathering of 4,000 priests and nuns.

One report told of a survey of students at 19 Catholic seminaries which showed some 40 per cent of them wanted the right to marry at some future time. A companion question showed that many objected to the Catholic church's requirement that its priests take vows of celibacy.

A leading spokesman for the Negro community—Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League—got a standing ovation when he called for a national emergency education act that would support both public and parochial schools.

"Your schools are closing . . . what we need right now are more schools. It doesn't matter whether they are public or parochial," Young said.

Other speakers raised the question of what should happen to the teaching careers of those priests, brothers or nuns who renounced their religious vows.

Several delegates said there had been instances of priests or nuns, members of college faculties, asking to continue as faculty members after they left the religious life. Some were allowed to do so.

The Rev. Charles Whelan, associate professor of constitutional law at Fordham University said he was compiling a history of college faculty members in such cases and he enlisted help from the delegates in keeping his list updated.

A debate over whether religious teachers should join unions provided one of the liveliest sessions of the conference. Brother James F. Gray of Glencoe, Mo., took the affirmative and the Rev. Joseph F. Lynn of Wilmington, Del., the negative.

Father Lynn said members of 17 religious orders in the Philadelphia archdiocese are forming an organization which will demand the right to sit at the bargaining table when lay teachers meet with school officials to discuss new contract demands. He did not use the word "union" and said they would not bargain for wages.

He said there was some fear among the nuns that the lay teachers would become more and more powerful, taking over the key roles of leadership and policy making in the schools while the nuns would have less of a voice.

Chrysler starts recall Of laid-off workers

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has recalled 6,600 of the more than 35,000 workers laid off because of a wildcat strike at a key stamping plant but the others will not return to work until the firm replenishes its parts supply, officials said.

Most of the workers recalled after the eight-day wildcat strike ended Thursday were in Canada. Employees in three key Detroit assembly plants were not expected back on the job until later next week.

"The pipeline has run dry and it will take some time to replenish it," explained William M. M. O'Brien, vice president of personnel of Chrysler. His aides said the key suburban Sterling Heights stamping plant will have to operate several days before parts supplies will be restored to meet demands of assembly lines.

Meanwhile, United Auto Workers officials and company representatives are attempting to resolve the dispute which touched off the walkout last Wednesday.

UAW Chrysler Department Chairman Douglas Fraser led the union team in bargaining over the suspension of Local 1264 officers and firing of other employees who walked out to protest an alleged safety hazard. The walkout was staged when workers were ordered to remove scrap metal from the basement of the stamping plant.

"There's no argument that a safety hazard exists and it is a very serious one," Fraser said after the meeting. He said one of the union's goals is to restore the jobs of the 69 unionists fired.

The fired employees will have to wait at least two weeks before learning of their future. By then, the other workers are expected to vote on a strike authorization against Chrysler.

THANK YOU!

Got a school question? 'Hot-line' will answer it

Because of the importance of two upcoming school elections, a new "column" will be started on this page Monday.

It will be a "school hot-line" feature which will allow readers to ask any questions they wish about the public schools, especially issues involved in the Willow Run School District's millage election April 22 and the Ypsilanti School District's vote May 19 on a new high school. Answers will be supplied by school officials.

Too often rumors or a whispering campaign have had a definite and negative effect on local-level elections. The defeat of Ypsilanti's new housing code this week is a prime example.

The "hot-line" column is aimed at stopping false rumors and countering the whispering campaigns with factual answers to questions the taxpayers and parents may have about their school district. It is hoped the column can help clear up some of the charges, counter-charges and doubts which have marked some previous elections by answering rumor with fact.

Both elections are vital to the community because of what will happen should the millage and/or high school be turned down. The Willow Run district would face a tremendous and immediate cutback in services because it simply will not have enough money to operate; present and future students in the Ypsilanti system will continue to be educated in badly cramped inadequate quarters in grades 6 through 12 until a new high school is finally approved, at some later date but at what additional costs because of the inflationary spiral.

Questions for the "hot-line" column must be written out and mailed or delivered to The Press. The questions should be as brief as possible, must be signed and include the sender's address. The sender's name will be withheld if requested. As many questions and answers as possible will be printed daily on this page until at least May 19.

Another Viewpoint

Goliath outfights David—

There's been nothing like it since Gilbert and Sullivan.

Anguilla, a tiny dot of an island in the Caribbean, has suffered a full-blown invasion by British Red Devil paratroopers, who outnumbered the island's total military force of 250 men. The British were utterly fearless. They steamed within helicopter distance aboard two warships which probably equaled the size of the island.

They landed at the island's only airstrip, courageously overlooking the Anguillans' announced intention to prevent the landing by coaxing a herd of goats onto the strip.

The crack Red Devils, armed with the latest weapons, went against severe odds, it must be admitted. The Anguillans had been practicing with cannon described as having been left over from the Napoleonic wars.

Anguilla, a former British possession, had the bad judgment to secede from a three-island federation engineered by Britain when "freedom" was granted. It's all so reassuring and nostalgic.

As world leaders, Americans are often taken to task for alleged international boo-boos that it is easy to forget the truly colossal pomposities which were common when Britannia ruled the waves before World War II.

The episode would make a delightful comic opera.

Selective Service to fight Liberal Wyzanski ruling

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Selective Service System is asking an immediate Supreme Court test of a district court ruling that the military draft law's religious definition of conscientious objectors is unconstitutional.

In that decision Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., struck down the law's requirement that conscientious objection to military service must be based on "religious training and belief." The judge found that the requirement violates the constitutional guarantee of free exercise of religion.

The Wyzanski decision was a blow to Selective Service officials. If upheld, it could open the way to broader claims of conscience, including claims based on pacifism or on opposition to a particular war, specifically the war in Vietnam.

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, the draft director, has requested that the Boston case be taken directly to the Supreme Court for review. The Justice Department is reported to have agreed to that rather unusual course of action.

Wyzanski said, in effect, that the 1967 draft law discriminates against young men who base a claim for C.O. status on deeply held moral beliefs which are not a part of formal religion. He suggested that John H. Sisson, Jr., the draftee involved, was motivated by a moral and ethical "table of ultimate values."

Congress may have put itself in a hole with the 1967 language on conscientious objectors. It had evidence at hand that the Supreme Court has misgivings about claims of conscience rooted solely in religious training.

In the 1948 version of the draft law Congress had eliminated the "religious training" phrase in favor of a requirement that conscientious objectors believe in a "Supreme Being." Even that requirement fell afoul of the Supreme Court, however.

In a 1965 case, the court ruled that a draftee could qualify as a conscientious objector without believing in a Supreme Being if his refusal to serve was based in a sincere and deeply held belief that paralleled a belief in God.

Local draft boards were able to live with that 1965 decision, but Congress decided not to live with it. In 1967, with anti-draft sentiment on the rise as a result of the Vietnam war, the House and Senate disregarded constitutional warnings and returned to the earlier requirement that conscientious objection must be based on "religious training and belief."

In the light of the earlier Supreme Court finding with respect to religion as the only appropriate source of conscience, legal scholars here will not be surprised if the Supreme Court goes along with Wyzanski in opening up other ethical grounds.

In any case, the court's review of Wyzanski's decision will itself be reviewed by Congress when, and if, the Pentagon proposes changes in the draft law. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has indicated that such proposals will be forthcoming.

Black nationalists Seek Chinese aid In takeover plan

By Victor
Riesel
Press
Special
Writer

One day last mid-June, four American Revolutionaries visited Dar es Salaam in Tanzania. Their leader, in the presence of Mao Tse-tung, took the podium at a Peking rally and pledged that he would escalate the slogan, "Burn, Baby, Burn" to "Kill, Baby, Kill." Violence, he shouted, is the only way of communication.

Those words were trumpeted by Robert Williams, president of the Republic of New Africa, which flashed into the news two weeks ago when its national conference of 300 "citizens" in Detroit wound up in a shoot-out during which a 22-year-old policeman was killed.

One of the four avowed revolutionists in "Dar" last June was Robert Williams. He was on a mission for the "American desk" in Peking. His assignment was to meet with the Republic of New Africa's active home-front leaders: chief Vice President Milton P. Henry of Pontiac, Mich., his brother, minister of information Richard Henry of Detroit and Williams' former associate in Monroe, N.C., Mae Mallory. Williams is a fugitive from America, running from a kidnapping charge.

Williams told his allies, who had spent considerable money flying from Detroit and New York that he could promise them considerable industrial equipment. Chairman Mao himself had pledged this. Furthermore, he could promise military advisers to help train the Republic of New Africa's own force, the Black Legion, which wears green military uniforms, leopard-head shoulder decorations, black berets and black boots.

It would, of course, be difficult to use this equipment — machinery, tools, farm implements and Chinese military officers in the U.S. — until the Republic of New Africa actually holds political power in five Southern states. But the friendly Tanzanian government was ready to grant the RNA sufficient land on which to build a commune until the new government could shift operations to America.

This was the message the Henrys and Mae Mallory brought back with them to the RNA's home city, Detroit.

This was no musical comedy script. The four revolutionists are quite serious, quite experienced and quite intelligent. The RNA's acting president, Milton Henry, is a Yale Law School honors graduate.

His organization is interlocked with leaders of the Revolutionary Action Movement, two of whom were convicted of conspiracy to murder Urban League President Whitney Young, Jr., and NAACP President Roy Wilkins. One of the convicted conspirators, Herman Ferguson, is RNA's director of education. "The Republic" also is linked with firebrands of the Progressive Labor Party. There are ties with veteran Communist organizers and other revolutionary "workers" parties.

One of these links is Queen Mother (Audley) Moore, who operates a New York camp called Mount Addis Ababa, just the thing for guerrilla training. Mother Moore, who with Herman Ferguson (a participant in the Detroit conference) has been trying to smash the huge New York United Federation of Teachers, is the RNA's minister of health and welfare.

Mr. Henry has a full, rather bizarre cabinet, which includes H. Rap Brown as minister of defense. Other cabinet members, including the widow of Malcolm X, come from cities as far apart as Los Angeles and New York.

The four revolutionists were dispatched to Dar es Salaam by an RNA legislative assembly in Chicago last May 30 and June 1. At that conference, 150 "citizens" talked of buying land in Mississippi for an airstrip. They discussed plans to open consulates in America's big cities; seek diplomatic ties with "friendly" nations; seek United Nations recognition; start their own "government printing office"; impose a 3 per cent personal income tax on each "citizen" to purchase land in the South; set up black unions to compete with the traditional labor movement and attempt to take over burgeoning black unions in Chicago and Detroit; and launch the Black Legion as its standing army.

Also, under strict security, the gathering was handed a special document on improving explosives — the making of napalm, thermite incendiaries, Molotov cocktails and other homemade grenades. The document suggested targets — banks, police stations, courthouses, post offices and communication systems.

The Henry brothers are never ones to smother any angle. They had a "peaceful" approach too. Their strategy also calls for shipping a million black people into Mississippi. Then to work through the ballot box to take over all sheriff posts. Then to seize the government. Then to move over to Alabama: As a starter, they announced they had purchased 100 acres in Mississippi to run as a collective farm.

Of course, they also decided to arm their followers in the "West and North." Also those moving down into Mississippi.

Judging from the Detroit shoot-out, they were serious about the arms, the standing army and their new nation. Apparently Cuba, Tanzania and Communist China are ready to recognize it.

The first diplomatic contact was made that hot day in "Dar" last June.

ABM supporters take edge In Senate controversy

By Paul A.
Scott

Press
Special
Writer

WASHINGTON — Senate supporters for deploying the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system now hold a razor-thin margin over its opponents.

Most recent poll taken by the White House shows 52 senators either for or leaning toward the deployment of the ABM, 47 against and one unknown.

That's the private report Herbert Klein, the Nixon Administration's director of communications, is relaying to key ABM supporters in Congress and the press.

As an integral part of the White House's low-keyed public relations campaign in support of the ABM, Klein has conferred privately with wavering legislators to assure them that a majority of the members of Congress back the President on this key issue.

While readily admitting that the vote in the Senate will be a real cliff-hanger, Klein sees the House backing the President's decision to deploy the ABM by a 2 to 1 margin.

"The President will have no trouble winning swift approval for the ABM in the House," Klein reports. "Both the Democrats and Republican leaders are supporting the President and have assured him that most members will follow their leads."

"Administration strategy will be to raise the ABM issue first in the House," stated Klein. "By following this course, it is the President's belief a large pro-ABM vote there will help influence the outcome in the Senate."

The White House poll in the Senate indicates that at least two senators have shifted their support to the President's plan in the past three weeks. They are Sens. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) and Clinton Anderson (D-N.M.).

The New York Times campaign to block Senate confirmation of Otto Otepka as a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board is being sparked by a former-state Department employee.

The anti-Otepka strategist is Harding A. Bancroft, the Times' executive vice president who once was under investigation by Otepka for his close association with Alger Hiss, the former high-ranking State Department official convicted of perjury.

State Department insiders report Bancroft has actively opposed Otepka's return to government security work since the veteran security officer was suspended in 1963. At that time, Otepka provided two documents to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee to support his testimony about lax security in the handling of clearances for several reasons, including Bancroft, for important State Department posts.

Bancroft was being sponsored for a key State Department position by Harlan Cleveland, then assistant secretary of state for international organizations, and former Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

As a result of Otepka's cooperation with the Senate subcommittee, the veteran security official was suspended and charged by the department with giving classified information to the Senate probers.

Otepka was nominated last month by President Nixon to the Subversive Activities Control Board, an independent government security agency.

Hearing on Otepka's nomination is now scheduled for Tuesday before a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee. Since the Otepka nomination was submitted to the Senate, the New York Times under Bancroft's direction has blasted the nomination editorially.

Also, Neil Sheehan, the newspaper's controversial Defense Department correspondent, was given the assignment to try to link the veteran security officer with extremist groups — none of which Otepka had ever been a member or actively supported. One of Sheehan's articles already has appeared.

Soviets nearing Hydrogen power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet scientists apparently have made important gains toward harnessing the power of the hydrogen bomb, a goal that could lead to unlimited cheap electrical power.

Success in taming the process that makes the sun's heat and the big bang of thermo nuclear explosions would be a step toward reactors using the near limit-less hydrogen in ocean water—instead of expensive uranium—as fuel.

Prof. David Rose, a nuclear engineering expert at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, relayed in a telephone interview the details of a report from Academician Lev A. Artsimovich, director of the Soviet Union's work in the field.

Rose, a key consultant for the United States government's efforts in the same field, said the Soviet report indicates "the best combination of experimental ingredients yet achieved by any nation" in the nearly 20-year-old worldwide quest. "I'm excited about it, and so is everyone else who heard the report," he said.

Specifically, Artsimovich reported a combination of gains involving production of terrifically hot electrified hydrogen gas and its confinement, however briefly, inside a magnetic field.

Until 1962 the United States was the unquestioned leader in research in the field but the Soviet Union has since closed the gap by mounting an effort twice the size of the American one in both manpower and money, the Atomic Energy Commission says.

Dr. Amasa Bishop of the AEC, chief of the American program, said in an interview before the new Soviet achievement became known that previous gains by scientists of several countries had opened definite prospects for having hydrogen-powered reactors "well before the turn of the century."

One reason, he said, was that American, Soviet and some other scientists were routinely heating hydrogen gas to temperatures exceeding 50 million degrees in some types of experiments.

Although the figures reported by Rose for the Russian experiment were lower than that—about 20 million degrees—the temperature was held there for one-fiftieth of a second, which is longer than earlier experiments.

The significance of the Russian report, Rose said, is that it represents the best combination of results so far.

The best combination would be a temperature of 300 million degrees for at least one-third of a second without any escape of gas—called plasma—ideally would be so dense 300 trillion of atoms of it would fit in a cubic centimeter of space.

Rose said the latest Soviet report fell 10 times short of the objective.

Hussein offers Arab peace plan In Nixon talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high Egyptian official arranged a farewell visit to the White House today, giving President Nixon a chance to explore a six-point Mideast peace plan offered by Jordan's King Hussein.

The visit from Dr. Mahmud Fawzi, Cairo's representative to the funeral of former President Eisenhower, came after Hussein wound up a three-day state visit Thursday by sketching his plan in a National Press Club speech.

Hussein said he was authorized to speak for Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in proposing the plan that would guarantee freedom of passage through the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal to the ships of Israel and all other nations of the region.

In return for this, Hussein said, Israel must hand back all territory it has occupied since the six-day war of June 1967.

"The challenge that these principles present," said Hussein, "is that Israel may have either peace or territory—but she can never have both."

State Department officials could not recall that Nasser had ever given assurances such as Hussein's in any previous proposal for a peace settlement.

U. S. officials were wary, however. They assumed Hussein was speaking for Nasser but there was no assurance how long this relation might last between the two Arab leaders.

The United States also has questions about a resumption of U.S.-UAR diplomatic ties which Nasser snapped during the Arab-Israeli war.

The other points outlined by Hussein reflected the United Nations Security Council resolution which called on all the parties of the June, 1967 war to move toward a peaceful settlement. The six points of Hussein called for:

—An end of all belligerency.

—Respect for and acknowledgment of the sovereignty, territorial integrity and political independence of all states in the area.

—Recognition of the right of all to live in peace within secure and recognized boundaries, free from threats or acts of war.

—Guarantees for all for freedom of navigation through the Gulf of Aqaba and Suez Canal.

—Guarantees of the territorial inviolability of all states in the area through whatever steps are necessary including the establishment of demilitarized zones.

—Acceptance of a just settlement of the Arab refugee problem.

In addition to the Jordanian leader's statement, there were these related developments Thursday:

—Israel and Egypt fought an artillery duel along the Suez Canal for the third time in the past seven days. Tel Aviv said five Israeli soldiers were wounded. An Egyptian communique said the Israelis suffered 65 killed or wounded.

—Low level talks by the United States, Soviet Union, Britain and France began at the United Nations in an effort to find areas of agreement in the latest stated positions of the Arabs and Israel.

The talks were given little chance for success.

Lunar landing trio named

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A balding, 38-year-old veteran of two space flights will lead a three-man team on man's first attempt at true exploration of the moon.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration named Cmdr. Charles Conrad Thursday as commander of an all-Navy astronaut crew on Apollo 12, scheduled to bring off man's second lunar landing.

With Conrad on the flight will be Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon, 39, command module pilot, and Lt. Col. Alan L. Bean, 37, the lunar module pilot. Apollo 12 is intended as the first of nine flights of exploration of the lunar topography. Its flight plan includes up to 12 hours of crew activity outside the space craft and on the moon's bleak surface.

Apollo 11, which is scheduled for launch in July, will allow only a few hours of crew activity on the moon. An official once characterized the Apollo 11 lunar landing as a "grab and go."

Astronauts on that flight will do little but pick up 50 pounds of rock and leave.

In contrast, an official said, Apollo 12 will launch a fuller exploration.

Conrad and Bean will walk several yards away from the module during two lunar strolls.

Officials had said earlier that following the initial moon landing NASA will attempt a total of nine landings at different sites on the moon. Each will be devoted to exploration.

Conrad flew twice during the Gemini program. He was pilot on Gemini 5 and command pilot on Gemini 11.

The backup crew for Apollo 12 is all-Air Force. It's commanded by Col. David R. Scott and includes two rookies, Maj. Alfred Worden and Lt. Col. James Irwin.

Iowa residents Fear breaking Of river levees

By The Associated Press

Volunteers patrolled dikes through the night in Sioux City, Iowa, where the Big Sioux River flowed out of its banks and across three miles of land, submerging homes or leaving rooftops exposed like tiny dots.

The 200 volunteers were adults called out to relieve more than 1,000 teen-agers and college students who were given credit Thursday for helping to save some northwest Iowa towns from the ravages of river floods.

The biggest fear among residents forced from their homes where the Big Sioux flows into the Missouri River along the South Dakota and Iowa border was that constant pressure on the levees would cause a breakthrough and inundate the area.

Otherwise, flooding conditions today were no worse than Thursday when water spilled through a dike at Sioux Falls, S.D., forcing the evacuation of 50 families and rupturing a natural gas pipeline.

The youngsters pitched in to repair the damaged barrier and no injuries resulted from the broken gas line.

High schools in the flood-threatened communities freed students from classes to join the flood-fighting force and colleges in the area were in the midst of Easter vacation.

At Cherokee, Iowa, where some 350 persons had been forced to flee their homes when the Little Sioux River flooded 27 blocks, evacuation chairman Carvell Burkhart praised the young people.

"We hear more about the youngsters who do wrong," said Burkhart. "These boys are the kind anyone would be proud to have as a son."

Some of the Cherokee residents began returning to their homes today.

All 800 residents of North Sioux City, S.D., remained away from their homes, abandoned to the swirling waters which crested between 12 and 12.5 feet early today. The flood level was not expected to recede before Saturday.

Water from the west fork of the Des Moines, 10 feet over flood stage Thursday night, surrounded 15 homes in Estherville and hundreds of students worked through the night reinforcing dikes to keep water from reaching Jackson's business district.

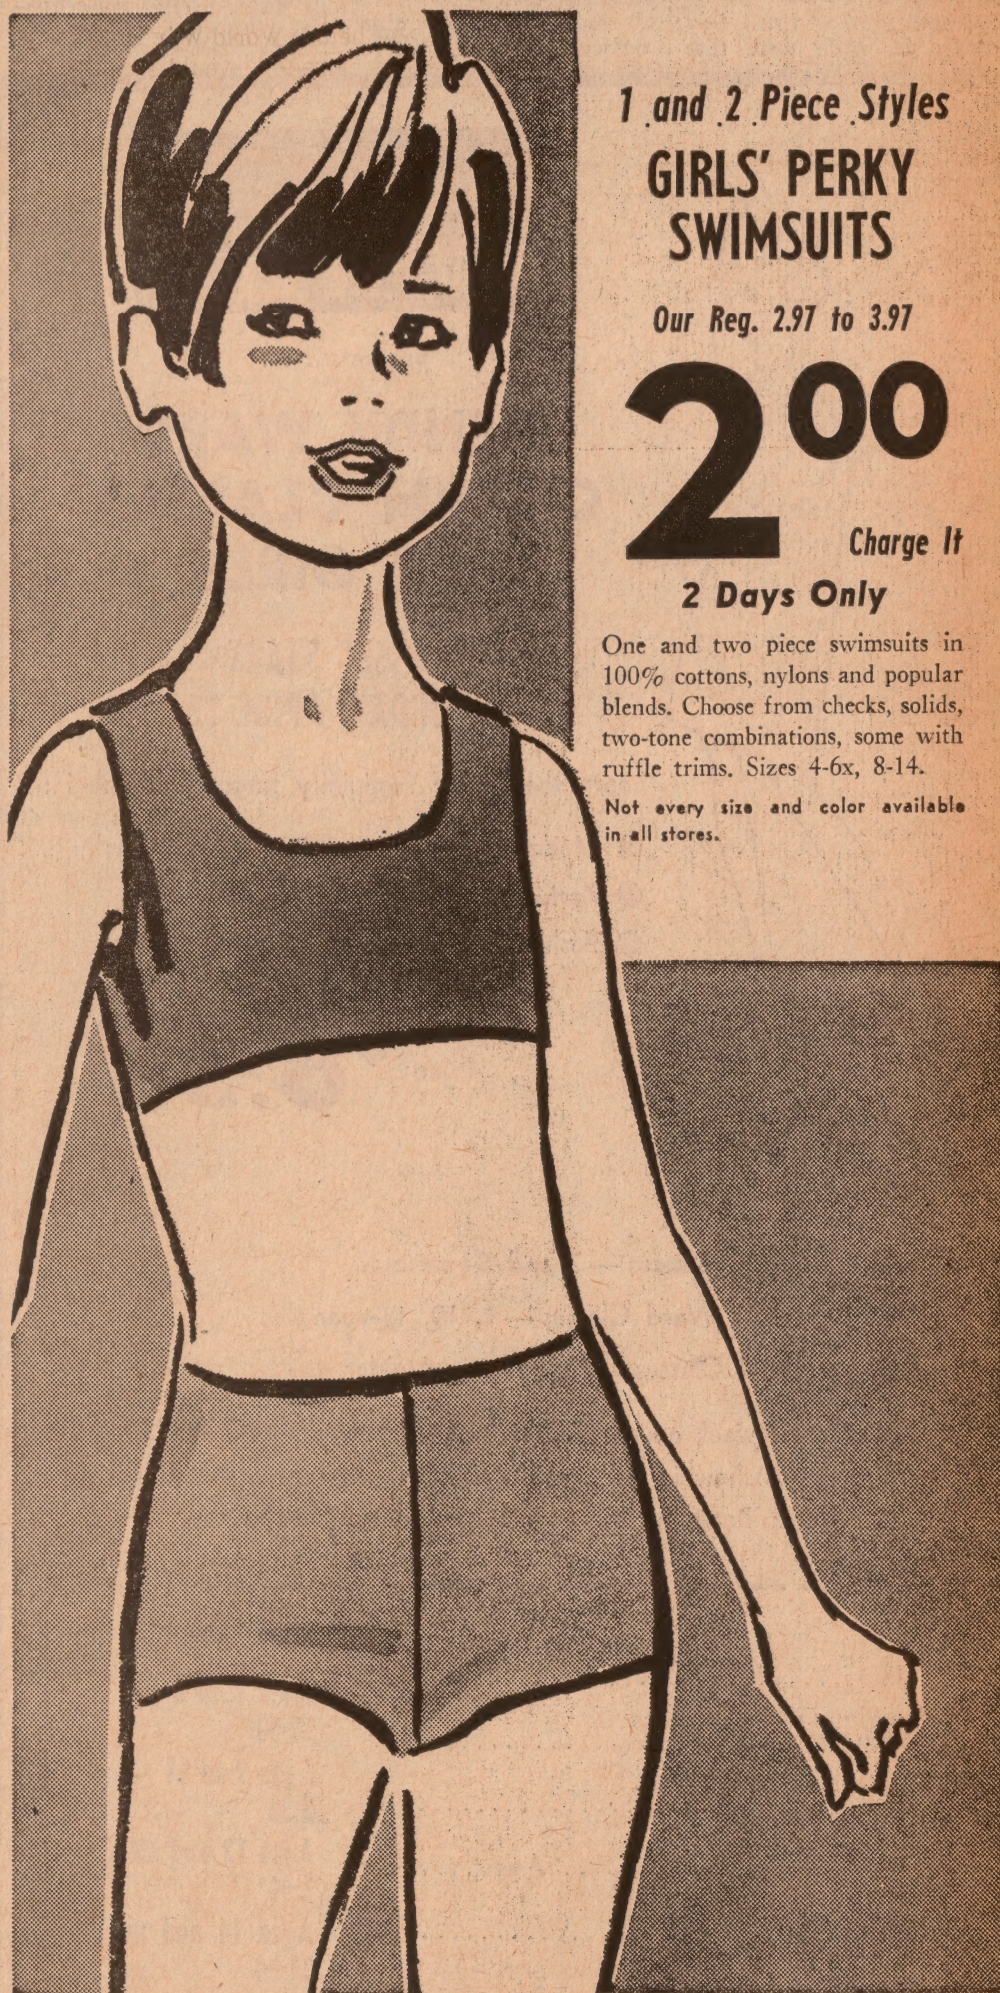

Rivers in Wisconsin continued to recede. However, the flood threat at LaCrosse increased as the Mississippi River inched steadily upward.

Federation hears talk On career counseling

"Picking a career is a complex, difficult and sometimes frustrating chore to many of today's youth," says Dr. Evert W. Ardis, director of placement services at University of Michigan.

Dr. Ardis spoke this week at the Ypsilanti Federation of Women's Clubs when 33 representatives of the 14 member clubs gathered at the Grove Rd. Branch of the National Bank of Ypsilanti.

Election of officers also took place at the meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Edward S. Cuthbert in the absence of the president, Mrs. Paul E. Bushong. Mrs. Bushong's husband had been taken ill that morning and died the following evening.

Mrs. Bushong was elected president of the Federation, and other officers elected were Mrs. Emil Parre, vice president, and Mrs. Ray W. Walton, corresponding secretary.

Dr. Ardis brought with him charts and brochures illustrative of the four areas of his division within the Bureau of Appointments at U-M. The service covers career planning and development for U-M students, summer placement, educational placement, and business and governmental opportunities.

Some 40,000 jobs were reported to the bureau in summer alone, Dr. Ardis said, and 18,000 companies are registered with it. Representatives from these companies often visit the campus, and they have recruiting appointments with students in small cubicles at the Placement Service. On some days students are seen every 20 minutes.

Stressing the need for counseling, Ardis said, that high school level counseling is as important as college to avoid quick career decisions.

"A happy vocational choice usually starts with an honest, forthright self-appraisal," the educator pointed out. "at some point in life each youngster must face up squarely and honestly to such questions as: How good is my ability to verbalize my thoughts and ideas; am I a team man or a soloist and am I an introvert or an extrovert, a leader or a follower."

"Our staff," he explained, "helps him face these questions and seek honest answers to them."

"Happily there is more than one appropriate and satisfying job for each individual who comes along. One man's food is another man's poison."

There are surprises in counseling, he said.

Last year, 236 older alumni of the U-M came back, disenchanted with and weary of their life's work. Each wanted help in exploring other career alternatives.

And 157 graduate students came in, acknowledging that after 5, 6, and even 8 years of college they still were not quite sure what they could and would like to do to earn a living.

And 252 seniors came in seeking help in deciding upon a suitable career.

"The sheer number and variety of opportunities makes the choice more trying," he said of careers.

He cited a statistic saying that the average American changes vocations nine times in a lifetime.

He answered many questions, and the session merged into the refreshment period. At a table decorated in pastels with spring flowers, Mrs. Clarence E. Dunkelberger poured hot beverages.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Bernice Inwood. Mrs. Ivan Disbrow acted as registrar for club-member attendance.

The group was reminded of registration for the May 19 banquet at the Guild Hall in McKenny Union, when Miss Doris Milliman will be speaker.

Home-mix saves

Mix one part water, one-half part white vinegar and one-half part household ammonia. Keep in a spray bottle to spray mirrors and windows. Wipe off with paper towels.

A refrigerator cake will be a lot easier to make if you butter one side of the lady-fingers to make them adhere to the side of the pan in an upright position.

Testimony wins divorce

Three minutes of testimony was enough for Mrs. Linda Ann Smothers to win a divorce from comedian Dick Smothers. She said he told her it was none of her business when she asked where he had been until 5 or 6 in the morning. (AP Photo)

Cook changes some ideas, Retains 'tried and true'

For a rare or medium rare steak, keep the skillet hot and don't turn the steak over more than once.

That was the advice of a professional Ypsilanti cook who had other favorite cooking to mention also.

She said she likes garlic and now uses a garlic salt where previously she made slits in the steak and inserted garlic buds.

She prefers a cast iron skillet but said such a skillet must be tempered, which she does by filling it with potatoes and putting it in an oven with the temperature turned up as high as it will go. She said the skillet would get red hot.

After that, she said, you should never wash it but wipe it out with a clean cloth.

In what would turn many a chef's stomach, she said she likes the taste of steak sauce, A-1, and uses it freely.

When cooking a turkey or a duck, she said the bird should be covered with a plain, brown-paper shopping bag which will keep it from drying out. She wouldn't go with the current method of using aluminum foil, saying that while it reflects heat at first it later keeps the heat in.

She said the oven should be at 350-375 degrees and that the bird should be cooked slowly. She said she always stuffs her turkeys with corn-bread dressing.

The secret of cooking a good breakfast of bacon, eggs and toast, she said, was making them all come out even. Immediately after the bacon is crisp, she said, slide the eggs into the bacon grease and push down the lever on the toaster. She said that if a person preferred he could "baste" the eggs by splashing the grease over them with a spatula and at the same time forming them into a rough circle.

Women to hear Talks on crime

A talk on juvenile problems and a report on crime controls are scheduled when the Ypsilanti Area Republican Women's Club has its meeting on Monday at 8 p.m. at the Grove Rd. Branch of the National Bank of Ypsilanti at 775 S. Grove Rd.

Speaker will be Police Chief Ray W. Walton, who will talk about juvenile problems in the Ypsilanti area.

Ms. George S. Sayre, former councilwoman and mayor, will report to the club on a workshop she attended last month of the Women's Action Committee Against Crime of Detroit. Anyone interested in attending to hear the talks is invited. Members will discuss what they can do as a club to help curb crime conditions.

Refreshments will be served by two hostesses, Mrs. Edmund Gunther and Mrs. Arthur Carter.

HELOISE'S HINTS

Food ideas ready for spring

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR FOLKS: When you are grilling steaks on those gray frosted charcoal briquettes and having French garlic bread at the same time, try my new discovery.

It's smoked charcoal bread! I take a big loaf of French bread and cut it in real thick slices. Then spread both sides of the bread using butter or oleo creamed with onion and garlic salt.

Wrap it in foil or put it back in its original wrapper to keep it from drying out. If you are having company, this may be done a day ahead of time and kept in your refrig.

As soon as your steaks are cooked and the coals are about "shot" and died down, take all the slices of buttered bread and lay them out on your grill.

Then cover them with foil, I use a lid from a turkey roaster if I am out of foil.

The "tent" will capture all the smoke and it will go into the bread. Oh... you talk about something different? This really is.

Turn each slice over after about a half-minute. May not take that long if your charcoal is too hot. Smoke the other side!

Don't let it stay too long. By the time you get your hamburger patties or steak and salad on the table, it's ready.

This is also a fabulous idea for hamburger buns. Sure makes that old ordinary hamburger taste different.

I also learned that I could cut the extra loaf of French bread, spread it on both sides, smoke only slightly and freeze it!

Next time you are having spaghetti, remove the loaf from your freezer, wrap in foil and heat in the oven. You

Gel and blending key Low-calorie desserts

Most dieters are reasonably disciplined about avoiding rich foods — until dessert time. And that's when many waistline-watchers fall from grace "just this once."

Low-Calorie Cheesecake frees you from any tussle with your conscience because there's no need to resist this irresistible dessert. It's a superb dish with all the appeal of a rich sweet — in fact, all it lacks is calories.

Because this version is made with unflavored gelatine, there's no baking involved, no risk. Unflavored gelatine permits all the fine flavor of the basic ingredients to come through. It's made the modern blend-and-gel way — just use the blender as the recipe suggests. And for further ease, there's no unmolding, either.

LOW CALORIE CHEESECAKE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1/2 cup cold skimmed milk
1 cup skimmed milk, heated to boiling
Rind of 1 lemon (use vegetable peeler to remove rind in thin strips)
1 lemon, peeled and seeded
Non-nutritive sweetener equivalent to 1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 cups (24 ounces) mild

Low-calorie cheesecake takes the temptation from the dessert course. It is a version made with a blend-and-gel method.

creamed cottage cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup sugar
1-3 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/2 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg

Sprinkle gelatine over cold milk in blender container. Allow to stand while assembling remaining ingredients. Add boiling milk; cover and process at low speed until gelatine dissolves. Add lemon rind, lemon, sweetener, egg yolks and salt; cover and process at high speed until rind is in very tiny pieces. Add cottage cheese and vanilla; cover and process at high speed until smooth. Turn into bowl; chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually add sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into gelatine mixture. Combine graham cracker crumbs with spices; sprinkle about half of mixture over bottom of 8 inch spring form pan. Turn gelatine mixture into pan. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top. Chill until firm. Yield is 16 servings, 85 calories for 1-16 of cake.

Another recipe designed to be low in calories is a fluffy applesauce gel.

APPLESAUCE WHIP

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1 cup cold water, divided
Non-nutritive sweetener equivalent to 1-3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups unsweetened applesauce
Sprinkle gelatine over 1/2 cup cold water in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatine dissolves, 2 or 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in remaining water, sweetener, lemon rind and juice and applesauce. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Beat with rotary or electric beater until light and fluffy. Turn into 6 dessert dishes. Yields 6 servings, 39 calories per serving.

Mrs. Rolf Norbom, outgoing sewing chairman, reported 22 members spent over 500 hours sewing for the carry cart, making Christmas stockings to hold the new babies on Christmas Day, making slippers for pediatric patients, and putting layettes together for maternity patients who cannot afford to purchase them.

At the annual meeting, members voted to purchase a training film on evacuating patients from a hospital in case of fire.

The film will be used to train the nursing personnel at the hospital.

Mrs. Fisher announced that the awards luncheon will be at 1 p.m. May 6 at the Huron Motor Inn. The program will be "Hats in History."

TMU is ready for anything

Volunteer Deputies Man unit

By JOHN H. COBB
Of The Press Staff

The Tactical Mobile Unit (TMU) of the County Sheriff's Department is ready for "anything," according to Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey.

Already used twice in actual crowd control, the unit was formed in October, 1968, and has completed the first phase of its training. It was used most recently Wednesday night to clear striking workers off the property of the Gar Wood Industries, Inc., E. Michigan Ave. plant.

Sheriff Harvey is proud of his all-volunteer unit, and proudly pointed out that all of the men have donated their spare time during the past six months for training sessions. "The only expense to the county has been the $240 per man it cost to equip them," he said.

The equipment is the latest, and is designed to both protect the deputy and aid him in crowd control. Each man in the 24-member unit is equipped with a 7½-pound armored vest capable of stopping a .45-caliber machine gun slug, a special helmet with a plastic face shield which will deflect a thrown brick, combat boots and army fatigues.

Special gloves with padded protection for the knuckles and backs of the hands are worn. A new "jump suit" has been ordered to replace fatigues as the "uniform" for the unit. Made of a non-tear fabric, the suit would prevent rioters from ripping the clothing from the deputies body.

Each man carries a gas mask at his side which will protect him from both tear and chemical gases. Training has been intense in this area; the men can don their masks within 15-20 seconds after an attack.

Different types of weaponry are carried by members of the TMU. Some deputies carry the M-16 "jungle" rifle now being used in Vietnam, others have sawed off shotguns loaded with buckshot, but all the men carry their service revolvers. Bayonets have been ordered for the guns and due to arrive shortly.

The unit's official purpose is crowd control in times of civil stress. It has been set up on a military structure with two 12-man squads, each headed by a sergeant. Each squad includes two riflemen, and a tear gas man, who carries a rifle for launching tear gas canisters and a special gun for tear gas shells. Police claim the shells are capable of smashing through a brick wall.

The remainder of the group carries either sawed-off shotguns or rifles and are backed up by a trained police dog and his handler.

The dogs have been trained by Charles T. Art of Plymouth, who runs an obedience

Electrician Killed In mishap

ESCANABA (AP) — Three hundred tons of iron ore pellets burst through the bottom of a cone-shaped bin, trapping one of four electricians working on the new $16-million Chicago & Northwestern Railway Terminal in Escanaba Thursday night.

The name of the victim was not immediately released.

The facility replaces the old Escanaba ore dock and was put in service for the first time this spring. A ship was being loaded at the time.

Workmen began using cranes in an attempt to remove the ore from the body.

Workers said they heard cracking and then a loud roar as the iron pellets plummeted from the bin to the ground, a distance of 30 feet.

The surge bin, which resembles a water tower, leads to a conveyor belt.

The terminal is the major loading area in the iron-rich Upper Peninsula. The effect of the breakdown on future loading of shipping was not immediately known.

The trapped man was standing on a metal ladder at the time.

He was employed by McDowell-Wellman, the contractor for the job.

One squad of the Tactical Mobile Unit is seen in full gear as it practices an approach to an boisterous crowd.

school for German shepherds. Art's school is the subject of a 3-page article in the April 15 edition of LOOK Magazine.

The dogs, Duke and Charger, are owned by their handlers, Dep. Lawrence A. Baird and Dep. Richard White.

Two other dogs are owned by the department and will be used to augment the force.

Both dogs are as friendly as family pets, which they are, but become trained attackers on command.

"These dogs are used as a secondary defense only," Harvey emphasized, "and along with three armed men, are used to protect the rear of the TMU."

"These dogs are part of the defense and will be used with the TMU in future disturbances. If people break through our lines or attack our deputies, they will then have to face the dogs."

"The dogs," he said, "will not be used as a first line attack or 'sliced' on demonstrators but as a backup measure and as a deterrent."

Sheriff Harvey's use of the dogs in this manner at the EMU disturbance had prompted the Washtenaw County supervisors recently to pass a resolution banning his use of dogs in future disturbances. The sheriff said he will continue to use the dogs in law enforcement as long as he is sheriff.

The TMU is led by Sgts. Thomas A. Dorrance and Newell K. Schneider, under ment, who was responsible for the formation of the Detroit police commando squad. Peterson will provide additional specialized training for the unit later this summer. Sheriff Harvey has viewed other units in various locations and said that police departments have praised the manner in which the unit conducted themselves at EMU.

The unit is made up of men who average 6 feet tall and weigh an average of 205 pounds.

"Less than 50 per cent had prior military training," Harvey noted, "and had to learn close order drill and other military tactics from scratch."

"I'm extremely proud of this group," he said.

A waiting list now exists for the group, which holds training sessions once a week. Sessions at first were held three and four times a week. "The men have been enthusiastic about their training and the unit has been well received by the general public," Harvey said.

A 30-man auxiliary unit is now in training to augment the TMU and raise it to a 60-man force for use in an emergency.

State court sets up rules for studying judges

LANSING (AP) — The State Supreme Court gave final approval Thursday to rules under which the newly established Judicial Tenure Commission will investigate complaints about judges.

Pending before the nine-man commission are complaints involving at least seven judges — including Recorder's Court Judge George Crockett who came under fire for releasing prisoners arrested in a shootout with Detroit police.

Under the rules, however, the commission may not reveal that it is investigating a judge until after a preliminary, private probe of allegations. Once the secret investigation is concluded the commission may:

—Drop the matter if it finds insufficient evidence for further work.

—Recommended the Supreme Court privately censure the judge.

—File a formal complaint including allegations.

Filing of the formal complaint would open doors of the investigation to the public.

Chief Justice Thomas Brennan of the State Supreme Court said the secrecy provision is aimed at protecting the reputations of judges who may be unjustly accused.

After investigation, the commission would vote whether to recommend the Supreme Court discipline, remove, retire or suspend a judge.

Final decisions would be made by the high court.

The commission also may petition the Supreme Court for an order suspending a judge from acting on the bench pending final action on a complaint.

The commission may take action against a judge for misconduct in office if he:

—Is convicted of a felony.

—"Persistently fails to perform his judicial duties."

—Is a chronic drinker.

—Conducts himself in a manner "clearly prejudicial to the administration of justice."

—Is "persistently incompetent or neglectful in the performance of his judicial duties."

U-M students eye Policy consultation

More than 90 per cent of the students at the University of Michigan feel that they should be consulted in the formulation of University policy. Almost 40 per cent feel they should have a vote on the boards of control of University policy.

Sit-ins as a means of influencing University policy were disfavored by about half of the students. Seventy per cent of the students disfavored disruption of classes or city or University functions as a means of influencing University or community actions.

These are some of the preliminary findings of a student opinion survey, just completed at U-M by the Student Advisory Board on University Relations, with the assistance of the Institute for Social Research and the Data Processing Center.

The picture of student opinion was obtained from the responses to a questionnaire returned by 352 students who were randomly selected. The questionnaire covered administration, faculty, student publications, student organizations and campus security.

A final research report presenting responses to all of the questions is being completed and will be made available for reference. Copies of the preliminary report are available at the office of the vice president for University relations.

Small home, big benefits

Basically a small home, today's design has larger-than-it looks appeal thanks to a second story that houses sleeping quarters. This leaves the main floor free for living-working areas.

The living area is worth shouting about. It is a long room — over 23 feet — that expands at back into a dining L. Its plus features include: a handsome fireplace that is centered on the side wall between two windows; a back picture window wall that captures a panoramic garden view. The dining area, which includes a roomy built-in for china and linens, is conveniently adjacent to the kitchen.

The homemaker will delight in the efficient work center. The kitchen's food preparation area is arranged in a space-saving U with the sink centered under a wide back window. One corner of the kitchen has been reserved for a small dinette set.

A lavatory, a large linen closet and an unusually generous clothing closet in the entry area compete the main floor.

Three bedrooms occupy the home's top floor. All are cross ventilated and are close to the bathroom.

There are six closets on the upper level, including two hall closets earmarked for linens.

Design H-75-K could be built with a breezeway linking house and garage. The house itself measures 28 feet, 8 inches by 24 feet, 8 inches, and comprises 1,432 square feet for the house; 120 square feet for the garage; 18,331 cubic feet.

If you are interested in obtaining blueprints, send your inquiry, specifying Design H-75-KF, and a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Press for the name and address of the company from which they are available.

Ceramic tile: a longtime Favorite for homemakers

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Some form of ceramic tile has been in existence for more than 25,000 years. Tile as we know it dates from about 4700 B.C. in Egypt. In the Pyramid of Sak-kara, possibly the first stone building in the world, small blue glazed tiles decorated the walls, and painted tiles were used as door jambs.

More improvements have been made in firing and blending techniques, colors, sizes and shapes in the past 20 years than in all the previous history of ceramic tile. Most of us are inclined to think of tile as those little squares or rectangular-shape bits of hard material on bathroom floors. But now it is available in more than 100 shapes and sizes, 500 designs and 1,000 shades of color combinations. The faces can be bright, glazed, matte glazed, extra-duty glazed or unglazed; have square, rounded or irregular edges; be flat, concave, convex, sculptured or patterned in surface; and range in size from one-quarter of an inch to 144 square inches in area.

As a result, ceramic tile can be found from floor to ceiling in kitchens, entryways, family rooms, or windowsills, fireplaces and patios, as well as bathrooms. Tile has also moved into the living or dining room as a colorful or elegant accent wall in line with the general tendency to make a single wall different than the others in the room.

The type we are most familiar with because it is on so many bathroom floors is known as ceramic mosaic tile. It usually comes in one inch by one inch, one by two and two by two, but can be obtained in larger sizes. Some manufacturers provide triangular shapes and tiles with irregular edges as well as the traditional square and rectangular mosaics. Nearly always unglazed in the past, mosaics now also come with glazed surfaces.

Glazed wall tile, as the name implies, is the type used for wall surfaces, although modern extra-duty glazes have extended its use to counter-tops and light-duty floors. The face of this tile is glazed with a glass-like substance that is fused to the body by firing at temperatures of about 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit in kilns. Designs or scenes can be specially glazed on wall tile to create an attractive mural.

Hard-use areas are often covered with quarry tiles. Here again there used to be one familiar type—the earthy red six-inch squares—but now there are dozens of styles and shapes. They are especially popular on patios, terraces and around swimming pools. Like ceramic mosaics, they will withstand freezing temperatures.

If you are unfamiliar with the many new varieties of ceramic tile, it will pay you to visit a contractor's or manufacturer's showroom and look over the available samples.

Relieves housing dilemma

Firm aids in transfers

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
When a man is transferred to a new area by his firm, the biggest worry may be his house. How long will it take to unload that white elephant or that shack in the middle of nowhere that one calls home sweet home?

Some corporations have simplified the problem. They arranged for the employee's house to be bought right away so that he can buy another in the area in which he relocates.

The idea was the brainchild of Donald McPherson, whose company, Homequity, represents some 30 corporations in the United States and Canada. Now he is branching off in a similar venture in Europe. The still unnamed European company is being incorporated in 12 countries. In the United States, he has offices in New Canaan, Conn., Los Angeles, New York and Chicago.

"We buy homes by averaging two independent appraisals," McPherson explains. "The buyer doesn't have to accept the offer. He can sell the house himself, if he prefers. But, if he has, say, a $25,000 house with a $15,000 mortgage and wants to sell, he can have a $10,000 check right away."

The corporations pay McPherson a percentage on the value of the house, the percentage varying with the location of the house. There is more risk involved in taking over the house of a pipeline worker in a limited market on the Midwestern plains than there is in acquiring the $80,000 house of an automobile executive in the posh areas of Dearborn or Bloomfield Hills.

Corporations guarantee against loss, and profits, if any, are shared, but there are head-aches.

"Occasionally, we may have to hold a real dog worth $30,020 for two years," McPherson says.

Fortunately, most houses are moved within three to four months.

Some corporations involve him in fewer than 15 houses a year; others may need to unload 900 or more houses annually.

Before launching Homequity, McPherson organized Homeica, a company that works solely for buyers, locating homes for people going into areas in which they are unfamiliar. The service and research is free to the potential buyers. If they buy, transactions are made with real estate brokers who work on a commission basis with Homeica. Forty-eight of the 50 real estate brokers with whom they work have been with them the 13 years they have been in business.

Answers to your Home questions

Q. — I hope to finish our basement this summer. Can you tell me the order in which the various parts of the job should be done?

A. — While there are some slight differences of opinion, we have found that the best procedure is to put up the framework first, have the electrical work done next, then construct the walls, follow with the ceiling and finish with the floor.

Q. — We had trouble with condensation all winter, both on our windows and two of the walls. Now the condensation has mysteriously disappeared. Why?

A. — During the winter, there is a big difference between the temperature in your house and the temperature outside. When the warm, moist inside air hits the cooler surfaces, it condenses. As the weather gets milder, the difference between the inside and outside temperatures decreases and there is no condensation.

Unfortunately, the condition may reappear next winter unless you find some way of permitting the warm, moist air to escape. This can be done with vents or exhaust fans or any other method of allowing the air to get out. Years ago, in houses that were not built as tightly as today, home owners had little trouble with condensation. The use of a dehumidifier is another way of correcting the condition.

Q. — I am considering using quarry tile on the terrace at the back of our house. Will it stand up under all sorts of weather in winter as well as summer? I probably will have the installation done by a professional contractor.

A. — Quarry tile will withstand any kind of weather if installed properly. Incidentally, while the most familiar quarry tile has an earthy red color, you can buy it in other colors.

Bad roof Can cause Headaches

Like the proverbial bad apple, a worn roof on an otherwise sturdy house can spell trouble.

Worn spots on the roof lead to leaks. These, in turn, allow water seepage that can damage walls, ceilings, floors and structural beams. If electrical wiring gets wet, it can short circuit and cause fires. So when a roof gets shabby, or bald spots begin to show, reroofing is wise and economical.

A new roof on an older home adds fresh beauty as well as many years of weather protection. Considering this, a new roof is an inexpensive investment. To get the most for your money, keep these points in mind:

Choose a roofing material that will give maximum service and minimal maintenance. For example, heavyweight asphalt shingles, which weigh 290 or more pounds per 100 square feet of roof area, are designed by the manufacturer to last 20 to 25 years without maintenance.

Use the roof to upgrade and individualize the house exterior. Be sure the roofing is fire-resistant; it's essential protection for your home and family. Shingles should carry an Underwriters Laboratories label.

FROM A RURAL DISTRICT of England comes the story of a driver of a small sedan braking hastily as the tweedy mistress of the largest estate thereabouts came hurtling around a sharp bend in the narrow road in her large Rolls. Before he could say a word, she shouted "PIG!" and drove on. "Fat old Cow," he cried after her in retaliation.

Then he drove round the bend himself — and crashed head-on into the biggest pig he ever had seen.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: A man complains because a woman invades his privacy when she walks into his barbershop. "All conversation stops," he says. Well, ain't that just too bad! I have to take my boys (ages 4 and 6) to the barbershop for their haircuts because their father is dead, and I don't believe in "leaving" my kids places for other people to keep their eye on. They're my kids, and it's my job, and I stay with them. Now, how about the men who come into beauty parlors to wait for their wives? I know one old coot who goes with his wife just to ogle the half-clad ladies getting their hair done. I don't appreciate being stared at by a strange man when I've got my head in a shampoo bowl, or have a purple mess on my hair during a color. So, be a pal, Abby, and tell me that we won't go into their barber shops unless we have a legitimate reason if they'll not come into our beauty parlors unless they have one. Florence in Worthington

DEAR FLORENCE: All right, but the only legitimate reasons a man could have for coming into a beauty parlor would be to announce a fire or serve a subpoena.
 DEAR ABBY: The doctor says my wife has to have her ovaries removed. I know that when you spy a dog, which

 DEAR WISCONSIN: I can't guarantee your wife won't get fat and lazy, but if she does it won't be because of the operation.
 DEAR ABBY: When I was an infant I was adopted by a couple who were told they could have no children. Soon afterwards, they had a little girl of their own. Then a boy. Then another boy. All my life I have been introduced as "the girl we adopted." My brothers were always referred to as "our boys," and my sister was always called "our real daughter."
 When my parents celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently, my mother announced that all her grandchildren were present, yet two of my children were missing.
 When my sister's daughter came in with her baby, my mother said, "Here is my own and only great-grandchild." My granddaughter who is 12 heard her, and said, "I thought I was a great-grandchild, too." My mother said, "No, dear, you have to be a blood relation to be a generation." Someone heard her, and said, "This is one for Dear Abby."
 Well, Abby, what do you say? Adopted in Leominster, Mass.

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN.
 One of the most painful accidents that can befall the elderly is a fracture of the hip. Despite all safety campaigns these fractures continue to occur and incapacitate the elderly for months and sometimes permanently. What is particularly distressing is that in most instances these fractures are avoidable. Carelessness almost always is the basic cause for the accidents that may require surgery for the repair of the break. Haste is unquestionably the most frequent cause in people who simply refuse to slow down and give heed to the fact that they are not as agile as they once were. Street accidents in slippery weather account for a good number of these but even more fractures occur within the supposed safe confines of the home. A few good rules of safety might include the removal of scatter rugs on highly waxed floors. There now are anti-slip protective undercoats that help to keep the elderly steady. Good lighting is an excellent precaution. Electric wiring that is poorly placed is a hazard. A small night light that will not interfere with sleep decreases the chance of injury during the midnight visit to the bathroom. Stairways, especially those that do not have safety rails on both sides, invite the fractures that occur so readily in the brittle bones of people past middle age. A cane is an excellent form of additional support for men and women. Vanity must not be a factor leading to these unnecessary injuries. Two lung conditions seem to sound alike and are frequently confused by the anxious patient, despite the fact that they are totally different. Bronchial Asthma and

DEAR ADOPTED: I say your precise recollections prove the depth of the hurt inflicted on you. I say, also, after "50 years" of enduring that hurt, why nourish it? Why keep it alive? You've won! Why carry on the fight?
 DEAR ABBY: My husband is 69, faithful, loving, and strong sexually. He says his home life is satisfying in every way. So if he is so content, why does he stare at every bosomy female he sees on the street? And why does he enjoy pictures of naked ladies in magazines?
 I pray we never get a topless restaurant in our little town, for if he ever went into one, I would never be able to get him out.
 Should I let him play his little boy game, or forget it? He reads you, so please print this. Bewildered Grandma
 DEAR GRANDMA: If your "looker" is faithful and loving at 69, you don't have too much to complain about. "Looking" only is no sin, but since he knows it irritates you and looks anyway, he could be trying to prove his virility while he still can.
 Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Press and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DR. BROTHERS:

Children may benefit By hearing parents argue

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS
 Dear Dr. Brothers. When I was growing up, my parents were always careful to keep their fighting confined to the privacy of their bedroom. My husband has no such concern and thinks nothing of starting a fight in front of our 3-year-old daughter. I try to keep silent but he yells at me until I'm in tears. — H.M.
 Dear Mrs. M.: The belief that parental disagreement should be kept hidden from children is questioned by authorities in family relations, who feel that witnessing parental fighting is not necessarily harmful for children.
 Dr. George R. Bach, director of the Institute of Group Psychotherapy, feels that children can learn something from being present during certain types of parental quarrels.
 While persistent, extreme, and unresolved conflicts can be seriously disturbing for children, the domestic quarrel that arises spontaneously and is eventually "made up" can provide children with an example of the constructive expression of aggression and hostility in any intimate relationship.
 Dr. Bach suggests that American parents are too worried about presenting themselves as ideal rather than real people, preferring to hide behind a "perfect agreement" facade rather than acknowledging the tension and disagreement that are a natural product of any close association.

 Naturally, some quarrels are inappropriate for the ears of children and parental discretion must be used. And parents should be extremely wary of the temptation to draw the children into essentially parental disputes.
 Some couples attempt to manipulate the outcome of a fight by using the children as allies or adversaries. Such tactics put an unhealthy and unfair burden upon the child, not to mention serving to sidestep the real issue between the parents themselves.
 Realistically, parents should realize that it is virtually impossible to hide all disagreements from their children. Even if they succeed in restraining their anger in the presence of the children, the children are bound to sense the tension and emotionally charged atmosphere.
 Attempting to avoid fighting completely may have the momentary advantage of maintaining the peace but it is a method likely to encourage the growth of deeper, more divisive rifts. Arguments may sometimes have to be delayed, of course, but the important thing is to remember that there may be a genuine issue to be resolved that is provoking the irritation between husband and wife.

 You may be hiding behind the excuse of wishing to protect your daughter to avoid coming into conflict with your husband.
 At the same time, it is possible that your husband is deliberately choosing inappropriate times to approach you with his complaints and dissatisfactions, such as when you are feeding or bathing your daughter, to put you at a disadvantage in the argument.
 Every couple has its own way of fighting and working out marital disagreements, based on their personalities and background. Your husband and yourself should try to develop a more constructive way of handling disputes; most likely you will have to compromise, you in accepting the impossibility of perfect family tranquility and your husband in learning to sometimes delay expression of his anger.
 "Are You Really Mature? This Test Will Tell" is an interesting leaflet by Dr. Joyce Brothers. For a copy, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to her in care of The Press.

TEEN DATELINE:

Distracted Romeo irks gal

By ELE and WALT DULANEY
 Dear Ele: Do you think that if a boy really loved a girl he'd watch "Rat Patrol" while he was talking to her on the phone? Honestly, sometimes he's not even half there! — Kathy.
 Dear Kathy: I think a boy could care deeply for a girl and still keep one eye glued on "Rat Patrol" while he talks to her. If it annoys you to find your telephone Romeo distracted, ask him to call before or after his nightly viewing when you can enjoy his full company. It's a fair request. Just make sure you don't divide your attention toward him by flipping through a magazine, doing your math or grooming your nails. — Ele.

Dear Ele and Walt: Two summers ago we had a counselor at "Y" camp for one week. He was really a good guy, the best counselor we ever had. Yesterday we learned he was killed in Vietnam. The funeral isn't here, but we were wondering if we would be doing a good thing if we wrote to his parents and wife although we never met them? If you think it's all right and would help what could we say? — His Jr. Hi-Y Friends.
 Dear Members: Don't polish your words. Just put your camp memories down on paper, telling in detail how he looked out for you, what he taught you and how you felt about him. We guarantee your letter will be the most helpful message the family receives. Why? Because your note will reassure them that his example will live on in effecting your young lives, that he had, in fact, made his mark on the world before exiting. — Ele and Walt.

Dear Ele and Walt: What's the proper way to refuse a drive from a stranger when you're walking alone? — Bea.
 Dear Bea: Keep your distance from the curb and just say, "No, thank you. The exercise is good for me." If he presses the point, add, "This is all I say to strangers. Thanks anyhow." Then accelerate your footwork.
 If he still follows, take out a pencil and write down his license plate number. That should promptly put him to uneasy route. — Ele and Walt.

Sons follow Fathers' steps

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Among 26 new policemen given badges by the Grand Rapids Police Department were four whose fathers have been members of the force for more than 20 years each.
 Patrolman Harold Johnson Wednesday pinned a badge on his son, Dennis, 22; Detective Joe Zemaitis pinned a badge on his son James, 23; and Detective Robert Winters pinned badges on two 21-year-old sons, Robert and Dale.
 The new officers will now undergo 14 weeks of training.

Radio station Gains approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission said Thursday the WMRR Broadcasting Co. has applied for authority to construct a standard radio station at Marshall, Mich.
 The proposed station would operate on 1540 kilocycles, 259 watts, daytime.

Michigan's Car fees Rank 43rd

LANSING (AP) — Despite a 57 per cent increase in passenger car license fees over last year, Michigan motorists still are getting off pretty cheap, claims Secretary of State James Hare.
 Hare said Michigan ranked 43rd among the 50 states in total costs for registering a car. It cost the average car owner only $20 to register his vehicle, Hare said, this for the state's weight tax fee.
 Highest among the states, Hare said, was Rhode Island where the fee is $101. In Kansas it costs $82. The fee in Massachusetts is $78.
 On the lower end of the scale, Hare reported passenger car registration in Louisiana at only $3. Drivers in Ohio and Pennsylvania have to pay only $10.
 Hare said formulas for registration vary widely between the states. Some include local taxes and other assessments. Other states use a graduated weight tax method, take the age of the car into consideration or assess on horsepower.

Detroit man Leads committee

LANSING (AP) — Detroit Postmaster Edward Baker has been named chairman of the Federal Agencies and Institutions Committee for the May 17-24 Michigan Week. His job will be to organize some 45,000 federal employees to promote Michigan as "The Land of Hospitality."

Asthmatic Bronchitis must never be used interchangeably.
 Bronchial Asthma is a severe spasm of the bronchial tubes leading from the mouth to the lungs into which is brought the vital air and oxygen so necessary for good health. Occasionally, there is a swelling of the lining of these tubes which may interfere with the clear passageway of air. Bronchial Asthma is undoubtedly allergic in origin and frequently needs intensive study to find the nature of the offending agent.
 Asthmatic Bronchitis may be allergic in origin but frequently follows an acute respiratory infection. The normal expected swelling of the lining of the bronchial tubes, not unlike the swelling of the nose and the back of the throat, may cause slight wheezing and difficulty in breathing.
 Speaking of your health: Jogging is excellent but don't overdo it at the very beginning.
 Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of The Press.

Often causes friction:

Protesting is frequent VISTA weapon

(Last in a series)
WASHINGTON (AP) — Protest, however, is not an uncommon weapon in VISTA's arsenal. And this frequently caused friction with local government.

As Apollo 9 whirled around the earth last month at the command of the space center in Houston, Tex., VISTA volunteers led low income parents in a march around Houston's school board.

The picketing protest was mounted after the board voted to cut 4,000 needy youngsters out of the free lunch program in the schools because of a money shortage—then approved $25,000 to fight a Justice Department desegregation suit.

In the middle of the demonstration the board backed down.

Paul Allen, 40, supervisor of Houston's VISTA group, watched the protest and said, "What we do in other places is Band-Aids and Mercurochrome. This is where it really counts."

In Allen's cramped headquarters, with a faded green carpet so thin it looks like a desk blotter, two young VISTA lawyers criticized Houston as the nation's largest city without a housing code. They have shaped a petition demanding a city ordinance to force slum landlords to make repairs. Other volunteers have been gathering signatures as the first step in a fresh protest.

In a Washington interview, Kennedy said VISTA volunteers rarely create local issues—they help the poor articulate the injustices that already anger them.

But, because VISTA is a federal agency, activities of the volunteers often stir deep controversy.

In the Rio Grande area at the tip of Texas, one newspaper scored VISTA as "Volunteers in Strife, Turbulence and Agitation."

At Del Rio, Texas, several thousand Mexican-Americans marched in protest last month after courthouse officials called for the ouster of 20 VISTA volunteers in a dispute over political involvement. The VISTA members have been ordered to leave this month.

Other controversies in West Virginia and Kentucky have ended the Appalachian Volunteers, one of the oldest and largest VISTA programs.

At the same time, VISTA is torn internally by some members' impatience with the slow pace of progress against poverty.

In recent weeks, there have been two secret meetings at Santa Fe, N.M., by volunteers to discuss a dramatic mass resignation from VISTA to set up a private group to fight poverty.

Led by a former monk and two Albuquerque volunteers, including a youth known as "Goldilocks" because of his bushy blond beard, the budding rebellion has touched about 60 volunteers scattered throughout the Southwest.

But—like similar secret meetings in New York last summer—no action has been taken.

Sometimes, when VISTA volunteers stay to try to work on their own after leaving the program, the results can be volatile.

In Des Moines, Iowa, one former volunteer who is now a black militant leader is under indictment for arson in two business blazes that flared up during "fire prevention week."

At the core of VISTA's accomplishments and controversies is its volunteers' intolerance toward poverty, an impatience they imprint on people who may have surrendered to their plight in the past. For instance, VISTA played only a fringe role in the local drive for fair elections last fall in West Virginia's Mingo County.

When the Justice Department balked at sending investigators in, VISTA members from two states put on suits, got haircuts, and drove into Mingo County on election day in government - marked cars that prompted people to mistake them for FBI men keeping an eye on honest voting.

James Washington, a former miner who led the reform movement, said, "If it hadn't been for VISTA workers, none of this would have been going on—because the same people have been around here for years without doing anything."

Casper takes lead In Masters tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Buffalo Billy Casper, a one-time gambling Mormon, has changed his ways—he'll gamble never more.

At least not in the Masters. "I deliberately played a safe round," the former fatman said after taming the 6,080-yard Augusta National course with a beautiful, six-under-par 66 and the first-round lead in the 33rd Masters Golf Tournament.

"I never once gambled as I have done in the past. Maybe that's the difference," he said, an obvious reference to occasional poor play on the course that many call a jinx for him. "I won't gamble again."

"I just tried to play shots into places where I felt I could get them up and down."

He got them up and down well enough to score six birdies, not a single bogey and establish a one-stroke lead over Australian Bruce Devlin and lanky George Archer, each with a 67, going into today's second round of play.

Big Jack Nicklaus, seeking a fourth green jacket, was along at 68, but there was a bulky field of seven at 69, three under par. They are Dan Sikes, Australian Bruce Crampton, leading money winner Gene Littler, Mason Rudolph, 20-year-old amateur Bruce Fleisher, Bert Yancey and Lionel Hebert.

Tied at 70 are defending champion Bob Goalby, former champion Art Wall, lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand and Canadian George Knudson.

Four-time champion Arnold Palmer had putting woes and took a 73. Roberto de Vicenzo, victim of last year's celebrated scoring error, blew to a 75. U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino and PGA champ Julius Boros each had a 72. British Open champion Gary Player took a 74.

The field of 83 will be trimmed to the low 40 and ties, and all players within 10 shots of the leader after today's second round.

Tigers overpower Indians For second straight win

DETROIT (AP) — The Cleveland Indians could have swept their two game series over Detroit—if they could have found some way to avoid pitching to the hit-crazy Tigers.

"You've got to pitch to 'em; you can't pitch around them," said Cleveland Manager Al Dark as he slumped on his dressing room stool after the Tigers bombed the Indians 12-3 Thursday on 13 hits and four home runs, including a grand slam by Bill Freehan.

Mickey Stanley played first base for Detroit in place of Norm Cash who had a sore eye. Dick Tracewski took Stanley's shortstop spot.

Cleveland is noted for its good pitching and poor hitting. The hitting stayed poor in both games and the pitching fell apart. Luis Tiant was the loser in the opener. His 1.61 ERA led the American League last year.

Dark said Tiger batters

"just hit the ball" and that Detroit pitchers are lucky that "they've got someone behind them that can hit the ball."

Freehan hit his grand slam in the fifth after Dick McAuliffe singled, Mickey Stanley was safe on a fielder's choice after McAuliffe slid safely into second, and Willie Horton walked. Freehan also hit a solo blast in the seventh, then Stanley got one in the eighth and Horton lined a two-run homer moments later after Al Kaline singled.

"Neither of them was a strike," Freehan said. "The one I hit off McDowell was high and the other (off Jack Hamilton) was outside."

It was Freehan's second career grand slam. He said he didn't remember he had another one.

The balding catcher said he has been watching Jim Northrup in practice and Northrup's knack for hitting homers with the bases filled may have rubbed off.

"I followed him so often in practice I started to emulate him," Freehan said.

A chilled crowd of 14,665 was on hand for the slugfest. The temperature dropped from 55 to 50 degrees during the game.

Late rally By Braves Earns win

The weatherman had predicted partly sunny and warmer for yesterday afternoon, but after waiting around most of the day, Ypsilanti High's baseball team was the only entity which warmed up all around town.

The Braves got tired of waiting for the weatherman, so they generated some of their own heat with two runs in the fourth inning and another in the seventh to take a 3-2 decision from Ann Arbor Huron at Recreation Park.

In the early going, it appeared as though the Braves were in for a long afternoon as the Hurons came up with a run in both the second and third innings.

The Braves threatened in the bottom of the third, but stranded three baserunners. That must have been a turning point, however, as they came storming back in the next frame.

Jim Horton, playing left field, doubled to left and came home on catcher Gary Jentzen's single. Jentzen stole second, went to third on Lance Allward's sacrifice and scored on a squeeze bunt by second baseman Rick Coker.

That tied the game at 2-2, and it provided enough momentum for pitcher John Wilson to catch on, also, as he blanked the Hurons the rest of the way, finishing with nine strikeouts and only one walk. He hit two batters.

Steve Rhodin led off the seventh inning with a double and after Greg Wike beat out an infield hit, Gary Bickley received his second free pass to first base. Bob Rockwell came up with one out and smashed the ball hard down the right field line for a hit, scoring the winning run.

The Braves, now 2-0 on the season, travel to Adrian for a double-header tomorrow afternoon. Slated to pitch for Ypsilanti High are Horton and Rhodin, both lefthanders.

Milan whips Jets

Bob Barrett had a five and Bob Naida a six on the first extra hole yesterday to give Milan its first victory of the season in a golf match with Carleton Airport.

Naida was the Big Red's low man with 44. Barrett shot 45 and Mike Cochran and Tod Schultz followed with 48 and 52.

Backstrom's First shot Beats Bruins

By the Associated Press

Ralph Backstrom sat in the Montreal dressing room after the third period thinking about the Boston Bruins. After 42 seconds of overtime, the Bruins went back to their dressing room thinking about Ralph Backstrom.

"It was my first shot on the net of the game," the Montreal center said Thursday night after his sudden death goal climaxed a rally that carried the Canadiens to a 3-2 victory in the opener of their National Hockey League East Division final playoff series.

"After the third period ended I sat in the room and thought about the fact that I had not had a shot," Backstrom continued. "Bill Flett's goal with five minutes left in the second period gave the Los Angeles Kings a 4-3 triumph over the Oakland Seals and deadlocked their West Division semifinals at 3-all. The deciding game is set for Sunday night in Oakland."

The Canadiens trailed the big, bad Bruins 2-0 with seven minutes left in the third period. But Boston's Eddie Shack drew a penalty at 13:11 and John Ferguson ignited the Montreal comeback 17 seconds later.

Jean Beliveau knotted it on another power play goal with only 56 seconds remaining and sent the Montreal Forum crowd into a frenzy. Boston's recordbreaking scorer Phil Esposito, who lost the key faceoff just before Beliveau's 71st career playoff goal, crouched in tears in front of the Bruins' bench as the debris was cleared from the ice.

Derek Sanderson scored both Boston goals.

Los Angeles notched its back-to-the-wall triumph over Oakland after a wild first period in which each team scored three goals. Flett flipped the winning goal over Oakland goalie Gary Smith, who sprawled to the ice after blocking a shot by Bill White.

Zebras top Eagles

ROMULUS — Roger Housley pitched a sharp four-hit shutout, and Joe Knight scored two runs and knocked in another as Wayne Memorial topped Romulus 4-0 here yesterday. It was the Zebras first win of the season, they have lost two.

The game was scoreless through the first three innings, but Wayne Memorial broke loose with two run bursts in the fourth and fifth innings to provide the winning margin.

In addition to Knight, Rick Fidd had two hits, including a double, and drove in one run; and catcher Doug Truskowski knocked in a run getting two hits.

AL roundup:

Howard clobbers Yankees

By the Associated Press Manager Ted Williams, who knows something about the subject, had a little batting advice for Washington slugger Frank Howard.

"He wants me to put a few more balls in the air," said the 6-foot-7 Howard, who led the major leagues with 44 home runs last year. The big guy complied and the balls not only went in the air, they went in the seats.

Howard cracked his third and fourth home runs of the season Thursday, leading Washington's 9-6 romp over the New York Yankees. The four homers in three days were four more than Howard had all of last year against the Yankees—the only team to shut him out in 1968.

In Thursday's other American League action, Bill Freehan smashed a pair of homers including a grand slam as Detroit battered Cleveland 12-3, and Baltimore edged Boston 2-1 in 13 innings. Brant Alyea also homered for the Senators, who piled up a 7-0 lead before New York's Frank Fernandez triggered a Yankee comeback with two homers including a grand slam.

In the three-game Yankee series, the Senators piled up 39 hits and 70 total bases. Their batting average is an unbelievable .361.

"Everybody is all charged up," said Williams, who must be wondering what all the pitcher domination fuss was all about. For the record, in case Williams, who wasn't around last year, doesn't know about it, the Senators batted .224 in 1968.

Frank Robinson opened Baltimore's 13th inning with a disputed double and then rode home on Boog Powell's single to beat the Red Sox.

Boston protested that Robinson's drive down the right field line was foul but Umpire Emmett Ashford ruled it fair and then Powell delivered the run, breaking a tie which had existed from the third inning.

Mike Cuellar, making his first start for the Orioles, allowed just four hits in 10 innings but his throwing error and another by Paul Blair on the same play allowed the Red Sox to score their only run in the second. Tony Conigliaro had singled and moved up on a passed ball. Then Cuellar threw George Scott's tap into centerfield and Conigliaro scored as Blair overthrew the relay.

Blair's two-out single following Don Buford's double tied the score for the Orioles in the third

Unsed tops NBA all-stars

Knicks rebound, top Celts Now trail in series, 2-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston had its laugh in, but the big Celtics' hit lasted only one night, and now the New York Knicks are looking ahead to the last chuckle.

"It was a critical game. If we didn't win, they'd be up 3-0. But now we're right back in there," said a hopeful Willis Reed of the Knicks after they bounced back from a humiliating loss Wednesday night with a 101-91 victory over Boston Thursday night in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division final playoff series.

The Knicks still trail 2-1 in the best-of-7 set as the teams head back to Boston for the nationally televised fourth game Sunday afternoon, but having erased the stigma of a four-game Boston sweep, the Knicks are filled again with hope.

The winner of this series moves into the league final against the winner of the Los Angeles-Atlanta best-of-7 Western Division final series, which begins tonight in Los Angeles.

The Knicks certainly showed motivation Thursday night, racing to a 28-19 first quarter lead by hitting a robust 12 of 22 field shots in the period. Boston never caught up, although it did get within four at 80-76, 82-78 and finally 84-80. But first Dick Barnett and then Frazier pulled the Knicks out of danger.

Frazier finished with 26 points, 15 in the first half when New York took a 51-41 lead. Barnett had 20 while Bill Bradley added 18.

Wes Unseld, the man who has everything, led a trio of newcomers on the NBA All-Star team named yesterday as only Oscar Robertson and Elgin Baylor survived 1969's new look.

Unseld of Baltimore, already named the league's Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year, made the team for the first time with Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia and Earl Monroe of Baltimore.

In adding another honor, Unseld had to beat out such standouts at center as veterans Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Russell and Willis Reed along with rookie Elvin Hayes. Reed of New York made the second team.

Joining Reed on the second squad were John Havlicek of Boston, Dave DeBusschere of New York, Hal Greer of Philadelphia and Jerry West of Los Angeles.

Rained out

Eastern Michigan's baseball game yesterday with East Tennessee State was rained out.

Area hosts two major track events

If you're a track buff looking for a meet with a flavoring of nationally recognized performers, you'll have a choice of programs Saturday afternoon in the Ypsilanti-Ann Arbor area.

Some of the top names in women's track and field will be competing in the Women's National AAU meet at Bowen Field House beginning at 1 p.m. while, at the University of Michigan, more than 300 athletes will be on hand for the Ann Arbor Federation Relays, at 12:30 p.m.

Four world records will possibly go into the books when Willie White, the longtime U.S. Olympian, and her favored Mayor Daley Track Club of Chicago lead a group of about 150 clubs into the Bowen arena.

Among the records that could fall are those for the hurdles and the metric mile. Mamie Rallins will be the one to watch in the hurdles while Cheryl Bridges, recently returned from the World Games, could crack the mark in the metric mile.

Area girls in action will include Susan Parks, daughter of Eastern Michigan coach Coach Bob Parks, and Ann Arbor's Francie Kraker. Miss Parks, who will compete in the 12-13 years age division, has run the fastest 880 this year in the U.S. for a girl her age, a stunning 2:23.

Her fast time is expected to draw a strong challenge from Vicki Slater of Ohio.

Francie Kraker, who has often challenged the women's world record in the 800 meters, possibly will compete in both that event and the mile.

A special event at the meet, which should run until about 4 p.m., will be the women's walk, featuring Jeannie Bocci, reputed to be the best women's walker in North America, at distances from one to 6 1/4 miles.

At the University of Michigan, meanwhile, a large throng is expected to be attracted by the carnival atmosphere of Michigas at Yost Field House. Inasmuch as the track is on the same site, the 25 cents admission charge for Michigas will probably go also for the track meet, a University of Michigan spokesman said yesterday.

The meet, including almost complete teams from Eastern Michigan, Michigan and Western Michigan and a smattering of athletes from other schools will feature an outdoor showdown of some of the Midwest's finest sprinters.

Michigan State's Herb Washington, Eastern's Kercheval Patterson, Michigan's Gene Brown, Western's Tom Randolph, William Wallace of the Grand Rapids Junior College, Kentucky State's Clarence Ray and Matt Jackson of the Ann Arbor Track Club will be featured in the 100-yard dash. Six members of that group have sprinted the distance in 9.5 seconds or better.

Another featured event will be the pole vault, in which Michigan freshman Larry Wolfe and Western's Wayne Lambert, both of which have cleared 16 feet, should battle for honors.

Padres win third; so do Cubs, Bucs

By the Associated Press
Pitching coach Roger Craig has been tooting the San Diego Padres' horns all spring but the big new sound in the National League is those Chicago Cub bell-ringers.

The amazing Padres kayoed Houston 2-0 in the major leagues' only night action Thursday as Dick Kelley hurled 8½ innings of one-hit ball after losing a no-hit bid in the seventh. That enabled San Diego to sweep their three-game set from the Astros.

The Cubs, meanwhile, had Ron Santo in the hero-a-day role and won their third in a row from Philadelphia 6-2. Santo clubbed two homers and a single.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh stopped the defending champion St. Louis Cardinals for the third straight time 3-2 and the New York Mets downed Montreal 4-2. Atlanta, Cincinnati, Los Angeles and San Francisco were not scheduled.

"This sort of bears out what Craig said all spring," said Manager Preston Gomez of the Padres after Dick Selma, Johnny Podres, Tommie Sisk, Kelley, Frank Reberger and Billy McCool held the Astros to one run and 10 hits in the three games. Houston hasn't scored in the last 26 innings.

The Padres' exhibition earned run average was sky-high and Gomez was worried. "But Craig said out pitching would look a lot better once we got out of that thin Arizona air and so far what's happened has borne him out," Gomez said.

Jim Wynn got the first Houston hit, a clean single with one out in the seventh, and Doug Rader singled with two away in the ninth before McCool retired Denis Menke with the bases loaded. Ollie Brown drove in both San Diego runs with a third-inning grounder and a sixth inning homer.

Ernie Banks was Chicago's opening day hero with two homers and Billy Williams slammed four doubles in game No. 2. Thursday was Santo's turn.

Santo's slugging backed up Ken Holtzman's clutch pitching, although he was touched for 10 hits.

Pittsburgh broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning against St. Louis. Richie Hebner walked, Robert Clemente singled, Willie Stargell doubled one run across and Bill Mazeroski's single off pitcher Ray Washburn's hip drove in the eventual winner and offset Mike Shannon's ninth-inning homer for the Cards. Dock Ellis went the route on a seven-hitter.

Tommie Agee hit two long homers and rookie Gary Gentry won his first major league start with ninth-inning help from Cal Koonce in the Mets' triumph over Montreal. Singles by Ken Boswell, Cleon Jones, Ed Charles and Ron Swoboda accounted for two runs in the first and Agee hit his solo shots in the second and seventh.

Warriors win third As Lofton shines

ANN ARBOR — To the kids at Washtenaw Community College, Dennis Lofton is "Hoyt."

And yesterday, the similarity to the famed major league pitcher of so many seasons, Hoyt Wilhelm, was there as Lofton knuckledballed Concordia College into submission during five innings of brilliant relief at Concordia's diamond.

Conditions were perfect for "Hoyt," with a stiff breeze blowing back at the mound. Which meant only misery for the Concordia players as Lofton sat them down on just one hit and struck out five during his five-inning stint. He gained the decision as the Warriors showed plenty of fire power at the plate in winning, 10-1.

It advanced Washtenaw Community College's record to 3-0 in this first season of varsity baseball. They were to go after No. 4 this afternoon at 1:30 p.m. when they were scheduled to meet Alpena Community College at the Concordia Field.

Little Larry Van Buren, a 5-6, 125-pounder from Ann Arbor Pioneer, held Concordia in check for the first four innings, allowing just four hits and a single run, before Lofton, from Flint Northern, took over.

Lofton had a 3-1 cushion when he entered the game, as the first of Greg Berklich's three singles, a walk to Mike Baum, a long double up the left center alley by Mike Schaefer and a single by Ray Meyers netted three runs in the first inning.

The Warriors had another major uprising in the ninth, keyed by Bill Wales' double and a two-run single by Ed Gall.

Saline '9' Clobbers Clinton

SALINE — After starting the season slowly against Tecumseh, Saline exploded yesterday with seven runs in the first two innings to trounce Clinton, 9-2, and even its record at 1-1.

The assault began in the first inning as Robert Charles singled and stole second. Richard Goltz and Glenn Burkhardt were both hit by a pitch and then Dave Girbach hit one through shortstop, scoring two runs. Burkhardt, the Hornet's catcher, then came in on a wild pitch, as did Girbach after he had stolen third.

Charles started the second inning by getting on by way of another error (Clinton made five), then scored on a triple by Goltz, who followed him across the plate on a wild pitch.

Dave Girbach knocked in the third run of the inning with a single.

Starting pitcher Wes Gall ran into control trouble and gave up both Clinton runs although allowing only one hit.

He was relieved in the fourth inning by Bob Mann with the bases loaded and one out. The young hurler entered the contest with a count of two balls and no strikes on the batter and proceeded to strike him out and get out of the inning without any damage.

Mann went the rest of the way, giving up two hits and fanning a total of six.

The Hornets will begin Southeastern Conference play Tuesday with a game against Milan.

Milliken tries for speedup To fight pesticide trouble

LANSING (AP) — In an effort to speedup pesticide control in the Great Lakes, Gov. William G. Milliken phoned Wisconsin Gov. Warren Knowles Thursday night to arrange a five-state governor's conference to combat rising pesticide pollution.

In addition, he was expected today to sign an executive order creating an advisory council for environmental quality and urge them to give immediate attention to the matter. The council would include directors of the departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Natural Resources and Public Health.

Pesticide levels in fish should drop during the summer, MacMullan said, adding that the department would continue planting Coho salmon.

"The continued use of DDT would be the most foolish thing that we could do," he said.

"There's pretty unanimous agreement that DDT has got to go." "The first thing that has to be done is for the federal agency to set a standard defining what level of pesticide content makes a fish unfit to eat," Tody said.

Fish caught in Lake Michigan, he said, have up to three parts per million of pesticides such as DDT and dieldrin. Those caught during their upstream spawning runs have had a content as high as 10 parts per million.

Prospects doubtful In Kamloop project

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Although 100,000 Kamloop trout were planted in the Grand River last summer by a private group, it appears doubtful that many fishermen will ever get a chance to catch the colorful fighter in Michigan waters.

Prime reasons are the state's reluctance to approve further plantings and also because the state has indicated it may plant steelhead trout in the river.

This spring fishermen in the Grand Rapids area have been somewhat successful in catching the Kamloop, with catches ranging from 13-17 inches long and weighing up to 2½ pounds. The Kamloop, a native of British Columbia waters and sub-species of rainbow trout, were 4-5 inches long when planted between the Sixth Street Dam in Grand Rapids and Webber Dam at Lyons.

The Kamloops being caught "look extremely healthy," said R. C. Schwaiger of Grand Rapids, state chairman of the Citizens Committee on Clean Water for Michigan and one of the individuals instrumental in the planting.

"If we can grow fish under such adverse conditions, what could we have without pollution?" Schwaiger said. "We could have a mecca in the Grand River."

Kamloop, he said, are a non-migratory fish that would provide good year-round fishing in the Grand River, whereas steelhead are migratory and generally return to the river only to spawn.

Schwaiger said the clean water group plans to seek permission to plant another 100,000 Kamloop in the river this year, even though response generally has not been encouraging from state officials.

Dave Borgeson of Lansing, a state fishery expert, said no plans have been made to study the Kamloop and no possibility is foreseen—unless fishermen suddenly began catching large quantities of the trout.

"There is no way that I could go in there and investigate the Kamloops," he said, since the fish were planted without being marked.

Meanwhile, the possibility of planting steelhead trout in the river was indicated by Bill Bryant, acting district fish supervisor for the Grand Rapids area.

The Grand River, he said, "could support a lot more steelhead because they would do the major part of their growing in Lake Michigan and come back into the river to spawn. You could stock a large number without putting any demands on the river."

Bryant said the state may consider stocking other species of fish in the Grand River "if it was for a localized fishery."

But he said, "if it was to change the designation of the Grand River from its natural classification into something that it is not, that is something else."

Deer ban sought By representative

LANSING (AP) — A long-time critic of deer policies set by the State Department of Natural Resources has called for a two-year ban throughout the state on the shooting of does and fawns.

Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, has introduced a measure to forbid the taking of antlerless deer in the 1969 and 1970 seasons. This would apply to firearms only.

Jacobetti previously has tried for years without success, to take away the department's discretionary power over the deer herd.

"There has been a decline in Michigan's deer herd," Jacobetti said. "The two year moratorium on the shooting of does and fawns would give the herd a chance to build up again."

The state conservation department long has contended that the taking of does and fawns is good conservation because excess deer would die of starvation anyway during hard winters.

Michigan's forests are growing up, the department game men have said, the food supply is dwindling.

They also say the deer cropping is needed because so many are killed on the highways and in some areas the whitetails cause crop and orchard damage.

Jacobetti also introduced bills to make deer and small game licenses available to senior citizens over 65 for 50 cents each. The deer license presently costs $5 and the small game license $3.

Michigan in Open:

'Beaver sealing' Closes season

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — "Beaver sealing day" was Wednesday in most of the Lower Peninsula, marking the end of the trapping season and the sale of pelts harvested by the state's little army of fur trappers.

The sealing is required by the Department of Natural Resources and follows immediately each of the six seasons which vary area by area throughout the state.

Each area has its own dates and limits, aimed at harvesting surplus beaver without endangering the "seed stock" for next year.

What trappers will get for their leg-wrenching work depends upon what the buyers offer and the trappers can haggle, and there'll be much of this at the various "sealing days." The trappers don't have to sell then, some preferring to deal later or elsewhere, but most do.

Beaver trapping is an avocation which has borne up since the first settlers came to Michigan, and even before that when the first settlers were fur traders.

Trapping has n't changed much since, either, in locations, techniques or tools, but the old snowshoes have given way to snowmobiles and pickup trucks.

Once there, however, the trapper still trudges the river banks, creek bottoms and swamplands on foot, encased in hip boots, lugging his axe and pack basket.

Trappers still use the common Victor pan-triggered traps which are wired and staked to the bottom so the beaver will be drowned quickly, but some with a more modern twist are using the Conibear trap which they call more humane.

The Conibear is a heavily-sprung square rig hung in a beaver channel so the animal swims through it, touching a trigger which clamps the heavy trap jaws to its neck, killing it instantly.

But no matter what the tools, beaver trapping is hard work, both in the setting and checking of traplines, always in rough going, and the skinning and stretching of pelts taken.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing bathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisen

CHILLERAMA 4: "Die Monster," "Comedy of Terror," "The Raven" and "The Terror" make up this quadruple bill which is guaranteed to turn any serious movie-goer into a raging madman long before the fatal stroke of four. — University Drive-in

CAMELOT: The lavish film fantasia of the knights and ladies of this best loved of all storybook kingdoms. Spectacular scenes, sumptuous costuming and a sensationally sing-alongable score — what could be bad? — Wayside

BUONA SERA, MRS. CAMPBELL: Gina Lollobrigida stars as an Italian temptress who has conned three American bedpartners into support of a child each thinks he has fathered. Careful direction and an excellent cast headed by Phil Silvers, Peter Lawford and Telly Savalas keep it light and funny and mature audiences will find it a pleasant relief from the usual sexploited fare. — Michigan

FACES: The story of a marriage in the process of collapse, John Cassavetes' film focuses on a quartet of sad, frustrated people trying desperately to convince themselves that they are having a good time. Painfully and embarrassingly intimate, the film's great strength lies in the fact that the audience continues to watch what they would prefer not to, and comes away with a greater sense of identification than they might wish to feel. — Campus

THREE IN THE ATTIC: Light-hearted spoof on feminine tactics in the perpetual battle of the sexes. Yvette Mimieux stars as one of three sullied ladies who avenge themselves on their shared lover by imprisoning him in their dormitory and impressing him into stud service. Not for children or mothers about to send a daughter to college. (O) — Willow & Algier's Drive-ins

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS: Paul Scofield turns in an excellent performance as Sir Thomas More in this story of a man's refusal to bend with the exigencies of the moment. Technically and dramatically excellent throughout, the main problems in the film seem to arise from a certain credibility gap in the hero himself. Nevertheless, the movie ranks easily among the best of Hollywood's recent efforts. — Martha Washington

THE TRIP: Peter Fonda stars in a pioneer attempt to simulate the acid trip. The story line is thin, but the photography and special effects keep it exciting, if not overly compelling. — Algier's Drive-in

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF: A Western to end all Westerns... and it probably will, as it methodically reduces all the standard genre clichés to utter hilarity. James Garner plays the "stranger," Walter Brennan, "the vicious outlaw" and Joan Hackett, "the sweet young thing" in a film which is really too witty and sophisticated to claim a 'G' rating—State-Wayne State

WHERE ANGELS GO, TROUBLE FOLLOWS: Rosalind Russell plays the improbable role of chaperone to a class of anything but ladylike young women in this too frantic attempt to summon the spirit of mischievous mirth. On a bill with "Clambake," one of Elvis' less noted entries, and "Hook, Line and Sinker," a new Jerry Lewis movie. — Wayne Drive-in

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY: Spectacular cinema effects have made Stanley Kubrick's futuristic epic one of the most well-deserved hits of the season. The relative absence of dialogue and narrative only increases the visual magnificence of a film which challenges all the unique possibilities of the film media. (G) — Quo Vadis Penthouse I

WHERE EAGLES DARE: Richard Burton and Clint Eastwood are the only big names in this high-powered war story, but the film is nevertheless headed for a spot not claimed since "The Great Escape." Basically the story of a group of experts assigned to rescue a general from the Nazis, it is so suspensefully complicated that one never knows what lies beyond the next twist. The genre is redeemed, and the real adventure-monger is vindicated. (M) — Fox Village, Quo Vadis

HANG 'EM HIGH: Clint Eastwood stars as a former lawman who is unjustly accused of murder and saved in the nick of time from a lynch mob's justice. By the time he evens the score several bloodpaths later, one wishes they had got him the first time. — State-Wayne

THE BOSTON STRANGLER: Director Robert Fryer has to be congratulated for not succumbing to the obvious temptations to run a 2-hour blood bath. The film is done in a semi-documentary style with excellent — if somewhat overworked — multi-screen techniques, and the all-star cast headed by Tony Curtis and Henry Fonda performs effectively. Still, one wonders what is the point of such a film, and that is exactly what's the matter with it — Scio Drive-in

THE LEGEND OF LYLAH CLARE: Would-be chiller about a young actress possessed by the spirit of the legendary star whose life she is portraying. Unfortunately, the film is so full of Hollywood clichés — from Lylah herself, who is a composite of every historic sex symbol, to her egotistical director husband — that it becomes more spoof than serious, more ticklish than tingling. — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW: Masterful adaptation of Shakespeare's slashing comments on how to handle a woman. Filled with color and pageantry, the film is further distinguished by the Burtons' brilliant handling of the Shakespearean meter. A film the Bard himself might have applauded. — Martha Washington

LADY IN CEMENT: Frank Sinatra's back on the beat in a sequel to last year's "Tony Rome." A rather weak, "minded plot" ensues from the discovery of a gorgeous girl frozen in cement and held up only by a series of violent scenes and a barrage of lampshade humor. Single best feature — aside from Raquel Welch's contributions — is the fact that it's reasonably short. — Scio Drive-in

THE STALKING MOON: An Indian scout rescues a captive white woman only to incur the "haunting" anger of her seemingly deceased Apache husband. Lots of bloodshed, but little else in a film which seems even to have depressed stars Gregory Peck and Eva Marie Saint. — Milan

JOANNA: A very modern movie about a very contemporary girl who's pretty and adventurous and sleeps with a lot of different men because she likes them. There are no moral judgments here, not even any philosophical comments; just a story about people which is charming and happy simply because it doesn't pretend to be anything else, and bold and exciting because real people are. — Fifth Forum

CANDY: How could a film with Richard Burton, Marlon Brando, Charles Coburn and Walter Matthau be all bad? Somehow "Candy" manages to be. In an utterly tasteless and insensitive treatment of Terry Southern's masterful satire, the producers have created a film as boring as it is vulgar. The waste is unforgivable. (R) — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

THE QUAKER CRAFTSMAN: Continuing the general theme of the arts and crafts of communal societies, Herbert Schiffer will speak tonight at the Henry Ford Museum on the cultural contributions of the first Pennsylvanians. A well-known authority on the antiques and artifacts of the West Chester area of the state, Mr. Schiffer has recently published a book on the subject of "Early Pennsylvania Hardware." His illustrated lecture this evening will present an overview of the Quaker Society, and will be followed by an informal discussion period. — Henry Ford Museum Theater, Greenfield Village, Dearborn; 8:30 p.m. program; admission $1.75

TOROS Y TOREROS is both the title and the main subject matter of an exhibition of 44 linocuts by Pablo Picasso currently on display at the London Arts Gallery. The cuts, which also include occasional portraits, still lifes and Baccanal subjects, were all done during the period 1958-1963, and comprise a graphic history of one of the major innovations in the history of printmaking. All pieces are for sale, and as little as $1,800 can still purchase an original. — London Arts Gallery, 321 Fisher Bldg., Detroit; through April 22 with galleries open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Night life

THE ARK: Emphasis on folk music with big-name entertainment on weekends, amateur sing-outs on Weds. nights and solitary strummers all the time. 50 cents admission covers free refreshments. — The Ark, 1421 Hill

GOLDEN FALCON: Dancing seven days a week to the loud rock sounds of the now generation. Accommodations in another room for the quiet drinkers. — Golden Falcon, 312 S. 4th Ave.; must be 21.

Our best to you...

SMOKEY ROBINSON AND THE MIRACLES: Early in 1958, Smokey Robinson and company were just a bunch of boys who liked to sing together and Motown was a label that had yet to make the charts. Then came "Get a Job," and a new pop group, as well as a brand new sound, was headed for the top. More than a decade later, they're still on top. Times and trends have changed, but honest music still means something. The Miracles sing honest songs, and there's no higher recommendation than that. — University of Detroit Memorial Building, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. Concert; tickets $3, $4 and $5

Pipe contest slated

If you had 3.3 grams of tobacco, two wooden matches and a bit of tenacity, how long could you keep a pipe puffing? There's absolutely no way to solve the above problem except to try it yourself, and the place to try is the first annual "Puff-In" next Wednesday evening in the McKenny Union Ballroom. Sponsored by the Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity at Eastern Michigan University, anyone is eligible to enter or watch the competitions, which will begin at 7:30 and continue as long as the smokers can. I.A.P.S.C. (International Association of Pipe Smokers) rules will apply. The only unusual part of the contest is that everyone wins. Top prizes will include up to $25 in cash, a selection of valuable pipes, and a trophy for the group with the best representation, but everyone will win something... even if it's only the pleasure of a really fine smoke. Individual entry fees are $1.50; for information on group participation contact Jim Szumko at 483-4158.

Oakwood's 'Showcase' Due at EMU

Eastern Michigan University will present "The Oakwood College Musical Showcase" at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 24, in Pease Auditorium. The group of singers is composed of students of the Seventh-day Adventist college in Huntsville, Ala. The group has attained a wide reputation for excellence. They have traveled from coast to coast in this country and will make an European tour this summer. "Classical" selections arranged for choral ensemble, quartet and soloists will be presented by the group which includes 15 male and 9 female voices.

Leslie Uggans set In Smothers' place

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—After what must have been a busy few days in the executive suites, CBS Thursday afternoon came up with the name of the heir to the Smothers Brothers time period and next season's opponent of NBC's formidable "Bonanza."

It will be a slight girl with a big voice, Leslie Uggans, in a variety hour.

Viewers with very long memories will remember Leslie from the days of "Name That Song" when she was an appealing child contestant. Later, of course, she was a regular on the Mitch Miller sing-along and after that starred in a Broadway musical.

Present plans are to surround the star with three other regulars in the cast plus the usual parade of guest stars. Judging from her past record, Miss Uggans may kick up a pleasant storm of music but it is unlikely that she will make the kind of waves that distressed the network.

Meanwhile, CBS still has to decide what to do with the Sunday night time period during the warm weather months.

Most of the CBS programs will just be reruns as usual. Carol Burnett will have singer Jimmy Rodgers as a substitute; Red Skelton's will be Liberace. Reruns of last summer's "The Prisoner" will take over Jonathan Winters' spot—and "The Queen and I" will depart to make room for "Animal World" reruns, first seen on NBC.

In this era of the hour-and-a-half or two-hour show, one of the rarest commodities in television is the complete and well-rounded half-hour program.

There is always a need for half-hour shows to fill program gaps.

But CBS, which dropped "Blondie" at midseason for "The Queen and I"—which hasn't worked, either—has the additional problem of trying to eke out the season with a minimum number of comedy shows in the new season.

That explains the curious, incomplete form of Thursday night's "Volcano! An Island Is Born." It was a News division show, but concerned an event between six and two years old.

While CBS got hold of some marvelous film footage showing the eruption of an undersea volcano that created three islands, it had its trouble making the thing topical.

The motion picture film of the eruption was truly awesome and dramatic—vast jets of steam and ash tossed from the sea into the sky, streams of molten lava running down the volcano slides like a slow-motion river.

Since the film took up most of the time, there was not much room to develop any news theme. The script made a few references to scientists racing to the scene to study the birth of a land mass, but we never found out anything they learned.

In summary, the pictures were great, the script disappointing.

DR. BENJAMIN SPOCK may be said to have fathered a whole generation of young people. Having guided their rearing from earliest childhood, he is concerned now with their welfare in a world which sends them off to die in war. He returns to that first audience this evening to discuss the continuing conflict in Vietnam in an effort to bridge a generation gap that should never have existed.—Rackham Educational Memorial Building, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. talk; admission $2, students $1.

Detroit

POISON APPLE: Ingenious decor creating a little bit of Never-Never-Land in little old Detroit. Writing to a friend, Dwight D. Eisenhower once mentioned Winston Churchill, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Robert E. Lee as great men, and then went on to establish his own scale for weighing greatness.

"It embraced," as Relman Morin writes in his new biography, EISENHOWER: A GAUGE OF GREATNESS, "the qualities of vision, integrity, courage, understanding, and the ability to communicate."

You will be interested in Morin's judgment on how Eisenhower measured up to the high standards that he himself set. This is just one of the insights that Morin, a two-time Pulitzer prize winner, supplies into unknown and little known aspects of the life of the war time commander and peace time president.

Transplant Surgeons Disagree

Artificial heart Debate rages on

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A professional conflict has developed between the two men who have performed more heart transplants than anyone else in the world.

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey has asked an official inquiry into an operation by Dr. Denton A. Cooley making use of an artificial heart to save a patient until a human heart donor could be found.

The patient, Haskell Karp, 47, of Skokie, Ill., lived 65 hours with the mechanical device substituting for his own heart, but died after a human heart was implanted in his chest. Death was attributed to pneumonia.

In Washington, officials of the National Heart Institute, which distributes federal funds for artificial heart research, said Thursday Dr. DeBakey had advised them that the device Cooley used probably was made in DeBakey's Baylor College of Medicine laboratory.

Research there was financed with government money and the use of devices developed in the laboratory would thus be subject to federal guidelines on testing.

An institute spokesman said DeBakey had asked the institute to send him a letter requesting an investigation and had promised "I'll get the facts."

Cooley told newsmen in Baltimore this was news to him. Cooley said work on the device he used had no connection with research being done at Baylor. The funds came from private sources, he said.

"I believe I am qualified on what is right and proper to do for my patient," Cooley said. "The decisions are made by me with the permission of the patients."

"I don't see how I violated any government regulations... This is not the time for a witch hunt but the time to proceed with the knowledge we have gained."

DeBakey, 52, president of Baylor College of Medicine, can mix a friendly smile with sharp words and has been described by acquaintances as a man in a hurry.

Cooley, 48, a member of the Baylor faculty and also head of surgery at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, is quiet, soft-spoken and easygoing.

They have worked together for years with a common objective of prolonging life. If ever a word of bitterness has developed between them, they kept it to themselves.

Cooley performed the first of his 19 heart transplants last May 3. DeBakey performed his first 10 on Aug. 31. Each has three survivors.

I-696 decision Delay revealed

DETROIT (AP)—A ruling by the State Supreme Court on the I-696 freeway route through Detroit's northern suburbs may not come until a court session May 5 or even later says Deputy Court Clerk Harold Hoag.

The decision would affect two suits brought by Pleasant Ridge, Lathrup Village and a Lathrup citizens group which maintain that the 1967 law putting the freeway route to arbitration is unconstitutional and that the route itself is illegal.

Rust helps Preserve Bridges

LANSING (AP) — Rust-covered bridges may be an eyesore to some persons. But the state Highway Department says it's rusty bridges are greeted with aesthetic acclaim.

In addition, the department says maintenance costs are reduced by permitting the iron oxide to form.

Three rusty spans across interstate highways in the Detroit area are currently in use, the department said. They don't require painting because the special steel develops a thin skin of iron oxide that permanently resists further oxidation.

"It became apparent in the early 1960s that maintenance of bridges was going to become a major headache," said N. C. Jones, the Highway Department's bridge and road design engineer. As a result, the department investigated the process of weathering steel.

Steel for the rusty spans costs 10 to 15 per cent more than ordinary steel, Jones said, but savings in maintenance eventually offsets the added expense.

Hemophiliac To undergo Surgery

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—David Jones, 27, a Portland, Ore. man with blood that will not clot, was scheduled to be flown to Michigan today for a major operation.

The Air Force planned to use a medically equipped evacuation DC-9 jet to take Jones from Portland to Michigan.

Jones was to be admitted to the University of Michigan Medical School Hospital in Ann Arbor, which has facilities for operating on hemophilia victims.

Jones has a groin tumor that must be removed if he is to stay alive, doctors say. Since his condition became known, Oregonians have raised approximately $20,000 for the operation.

Michigan leaders
Praise Bentley,
Dead in Arizona

OWOSSO (AP) — Words of praise and sympathy were sent today to the family of former U.S. Rep. Alvin M. Bentley of Owosso, a millionaire philanthropist who died in Tucson, Ariz. while vacationing Thursday.

Gov. William Milliken issued a statement "noting a sense of great loss" at the death of Bentley.

"He will be remembered not only for his prominence in Congress, but also for his very deep sense of civic responsibility...in the public affairs of his community and state after he left Congress," said the governor.

"I share with his family a sense of great loss," Milliken said.

Bentley, who was 50, died from an inflammation affecting the central nervous system.

He was wounded critically in the U.S. House of Representatives when the Puerto Rican nationalists fired a fusillade of bullets in 1954 in a protest against their island being a U.S. territory.

Bentley, who served four terms in Congress, had been in a wheel chair since 1967, when he underwent surgery.

His grandfather was a founder of General Motors Corp. and left him a fortune estimated between $7 million and $35 million, while Bentley was still a student at the University of Michigan. Bentley, a supporter of the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy, served in the House from 1962 to 1966. He failed in an attempt to unseat U.S. Sen. Patrick McNamara, D-Mich., in 1960. Two years later, Bentley lost an attempt to defeat Neil Staeble for congressman-at-large.

Former Gov. George Romney named him to the University of Michigan Board of Regents in 1966.

Eight years ago, Bentley gave a $1 million grant to establish the Alvin Bentley Foundation, which provides monies for charitable, scientific and educational projects and for college scholarships.

Friends also said he had been privately financing other charities.

He earned a bachelor's and master's degree from U-M.

Survivors include his widow; three sons, Alvin Bentley Jr., Michael D. Bentley and Clark H. Bentley; two daughters, Mrs. Jay Dawson and Ann Marie Bentley; his mother, Mrs. Helen Bentley; one brother, John Bentley; one sister, Mrs. Schuyler Lininger, and five grandchildren.

Services were pending.

Earl, who retired in 1958 as General Motors vice-president in charge of styling, was responsible for such automotive innovations as a nonglare windshield in 1929, a built-in luggage compartment, and elimination of running boards and the outside spare tire. He and his staff introduced such "firsts" as the tail fins on the 1948 Cadillac, curved glass rear windows, two-tone paint jobs, the hardtop in 1949, panoramic windshield in 1951, a fiberglass sports car in 1953 and the four-door hardtop in 1955.

In 1927, Earl designed the original LaSalle, the first American production car completely designed from headlight to rear bumper by a stylist. He also redesigned the Cadillac line.

Earl wrote in 1957: "My primary purpose has been to lengthen and lower the American automobile, at times in reality and always at least in appearance."

Survivors include his wife, Sue; two sons, James, Grosse Pointe Farms, and J. Courtney, Del Ray Beach, Fla.; and eight grandchildren.

Weather
Bolsters
Employment

LANSING (AP) — The early arrival of spring helped boost Michigan's nonfarm employment to 3,223,100 by mid-April, a hike of 17,200 from mid-March, reports the State Employment Security Commission.

"Record automobile sales in the final week of February stimulated employment increases in the durable goods industries," said William Ford, commission director.

"Favorable weather conditions and the beginning of the Easter season increased employment in practically all the non-manufacturing industries," he added.

Nonfarm employment in the Detroit metropolitan area increased about 11,000 during this period. About 80 per cent of the increase was attributed to jobs in durable goods industries.

The construction industry also started adding workers as weather improved.
